Boy, 14, Shot Accidentally By Blast From Shot Gun

Girl, 9, Is Killed; Struck by Auto

Verdict Is Withheld Pending Autopsy Report

Marjorie Fitzgerald, 9, daughter of James Fitzgerald of Greenfield Park was instantly killed last evening about 7:30 o'clock in front of the Abraham Fagin store and near the Homestead Bungalow colony, Greenfield Park, when she was struck by a sedan of Sam Finkelstein of 183 Canal street, Ellenville.

Fitzgerald is caretaker at the bungalow colony.

Marjorie, with two other children, her sister, Alice, age 11, and Trudy Zimmerman, age 7, according to witnesses, had cut across the bungalow colony lawn and started to cross the road diagonally in front of the car. The two children halted as the car approached but Marjorie continued and was struck in the center of the road.

Corporal James Mahoney of the Wurtsboro state police station was notified and with Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson made an investigation. Coroner Chipp had not rendered a verdict today, pending outcome of an autopsy performed by Dr. Herbert Derman of the Kingston Laboratory and Dr. Harry Katz of Ellenville. The matter was reported to District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn. No action was taken against the driver of the car.

The child was placed in the car of Mr. Fagin and taken to the Ellenville Hospital. She was dead on arrival at the hospital and the body was turned over to the Pulling Funeral Home in Ellenville.

At the time of the accident Finkelstein, who operates a taxi service, was taking Milton Berger of Brooklyn to the Gruber Hotel at Greenfield Park. He had discharged three other fares just prior to the accident.

The accident was witnessed by Mrs. John Sparado off 11 Hillcrest

Youth Was Playing With Brother, 16, at Time; Verdict Is Given

Realistic play with a knife and gun ended fatally yesterday on the Wagner farm below Gardiner when the gun accidentally discharged and killed one of two teen-aged brothers.

Clarence Wagner, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Wagner, of the Sand Hill road, two miles southeast of Gardiner died of a bullet wound in the chest early yesterday afternoon during a playful instant when he and his brother, Kenneth, 16, thought the gun was not loaded.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly and the state police who investigated, said they learned that the two boys had started playing in their room at about 12:20 p. m., after having lunch. They were to change their clothes in preparation for a trip to New Paltz and began their boyish play while doing so.

Hunting Woodchuck

The boys had been hunting woodchuck with the 12-gauge shotgun earlier in the day, the authorities said, and both were apparently under impression that the shells had been taken from the gun when it was back in the room.

Clarence held a hunting knife in their play and Kenneth had the gun, the coroner said. The shot entered the left side of Clarence's chest and came out the right side and caused instant death, the coroner said.

Sgt. William Martin and John Metzger of the state police B.C.I. investigated with the coroner, who gave a verdict of accidental death.

A member of the family called Dr. Walter Rost, of New Paltz, immediately after the tragic mishap and he notified the officials. The body was turned over to the V. T. Pine & Son Funeral Home, New Paltz.

Clarence was born in Herkimer county, the son of Calvin and May Raycide Wagner. The family moved to the Gardiner area from New Paltz about three years ago.

Besides his parents, he is survived by two brothers, Kenneth and Terry, both at home; three sisters, Beverly, Joyce and Peggy, also at home; half-brother, John Casey, New Paltz; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Robert Wagner, Utica; and several aunts and uncles.

He attended the New Paltz Campus School and recently was graduated into high school.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. from the Pine Funeral Home, New Paltz, with the Rev. John Van Strien, pastor of the Gardiner Reformed Church, officiating. Burial will be in the New Paltz Rural Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Wednesday night.

Drug Use Reaches Epidemic, Senator Says at Hearing

Extends to Youngsters, O'Conor Declares and Sees It as Most Alarming

Washington, June 26 (AP)—Senator O'Conor (D.-Md.) said today "illegal drug use has reached epidemic proportions," and has extended even to youngsters of school age.

He called addiction among the younger generation "one of the most alarming aspects" of the problem of narcotics traffic.

O'Conor hit at increased use of narcotics, particularly by young people, in a statement opening two days of televised hearings by the Senate Crime Committee aimed at impressing on the public the menace of illicit traffic in narcotics.

Among the witnesses called were some persons who have fallen victim to the drug habit.

It was the first return by the crime probers of a national TV network since its hearings late in March on gambling.

Would Tell Stories

O'Conor said witnesses, of various ages and from various parts of the country, would tell their own stories of how they acquired the narcotics habit, where they bought the drugs and how the high cost of dope "almost invariably leads to criminal activity."

Some of those to testify are inmates of federal and state institutions, before the hearings started, O'Conor explained to reporters that these witnesses "would not and could not be televised." He said it is contrary to federal and state regulations to permit them to be pictured.

But he said that other drug users, who are not in institutions and who are appearing voluntarily, will be televised unless they object. He added, however, that their names will be withheld.

In addition to addicts, O'Conor said the crime probers also may take testimony from parents of some of the youthful dope users to "point up the terrible disruption of family life resulting from addition among the younger element."

Talk Held Over Who Was Right

Senate Inquiry Is Ended and McMahon Says MacArthur-ites Lose Their Case

Meeting Scheduled

Joint Committee Plans to Discuss Reports on Investigation

Washington, June 26 (AP)—The stormy Senate inquiry into the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur appears ended, but debate continued almost as hot as ever today over who was right—President Truman or MacArthur.

Here is an example of the sharp division in the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees which conducted the 42-day investigation:

Senator McMahon (D.-Conn.): "The MacArthur-ites have lost their case."

Senator Brewster (R.-Me.): "The record of the hearings pretty completely devastates the Truman administration's case."

The indications are some of the other 24 members of the inquiry panel will line up with McMahon, some with Brewster, while others probably will take positions somewhere in between.

The lengthy investigation — it started May 3 — came yesterday to what most members regard as a permanent halt so far as oral testimony is concerned.

Not Foreclosing Possibility

Chairman Russell (D.-Ga.) said he wasn't foreclosing the possibility of other witnesses being called, but he added he doubts they will be.

The joint committee will meet tomorrow or Thursday to discuss plans for reports on the investigation and to arrange for possible submission of written statements from some persons who did not testify.

The committee's last scheduled witness, the 13th, was Maj. Gen. Emmett (Rosie) O'Donnell, whose testimony brought the voluminous record to a total of approximately 2,045,000 words.

O'Donnell, now commander of the 15th Air Force and former chief of the Far Eastern Bomber Command, testified the United Nations forces in Korea "made a mistake" by not bombing Manchurian supply bases when the Chinese Reds came into the war last November.

But he said bombing those bases now might weaken this country's "Sunday punch" for Russia if the Soviets decided to start World War III.

Inquiry Shapes Up

The Senate Committee's inquiry began to shape up as soon as Mr. Truman fired MacArthur on April 11.

The five-star general was re-

Ridgway Says Soviet Proposal Is Too Open, Suggests 'Politics'

Mossadegh Requests British Technicians to Stay on Job

Premier Fails to Say Whether Drastic Document Would Be Withdrawn; Ambassador Protests Possible Death Penalties

Tehran, Iran, June 26 (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh in a message broadcast today appealed to British oil technicians to stay on the job for the Iranian government. But he failed to say whether he would withdraw a drastic anti-sabotage bill carrying possible death penalties.

British Ambassador Sir Frances Shepherd yesterday protested against the bill, introduced in Parliament last week by Mossadegh. Sir Francis said its passage would result in wholesome resignations of the 3,000 British employes of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. He said they would be fearful of being accused of sabotage in event of accidents.

The Mossadegh message said mass British resignations would "be a loss not only for Iran but for the western powers."

Iran's board of directors, which is attempting to take over the British-owned AIOC under the nationalization law, already has accused Eric Drake, 40-year-old British field boss at the Abadan refinery, with sabotage. He has refused to let British tanker captains sign receipts acknowledging Iranian ownership of oil loaded on their ships.

Latest reports from Abadan said 27 tankers were immobilized by the dispute over receipts for the oil. The pumping of oil aboard tankers had ceased and the refinery rapidly was filling up its storage tanks.

Once the tanks are full, the refinery would have to shut down—a possibly dangerous operation.

Drake has warned the Iranians that "if we are forced to shut down you must name responsible officials to take over immediately a dangerous situation—unless you want to see Abadan go up in flames."

The Iranian board yesterday gave Drake an ultimatum to decide by 8 p. m. Thursday to work for the Iranian government or get out.

An AIOC spokesman said Derek Hobson, manager of the small refinery at Kermanshah, had advised the Iranians that the score of British technicians there would resign collectively if Iran's restrictions are not lifted.

Hobson has been forbidden by the Iranians to enter his office at Kermanshah. He has been carrying on the management from his home.

All British wives and children at Kermanshah, 300 miles north of Abadan, have been evacuated except for Hobson's wife.

Memorandum Brands Offer as Attempt to Boost Reds Militarily

Tokyo, June 26 (AP)—A memorandum circulated at Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters today said U. S. State Department officials consider a Soviet proposal for a Korean cease-fire "too frontal and too public."

It questioned the proposal as a Russian "political move" and virtually branded it "a move * * * to place the enemy in a better position militarily."

And it warned: "There is always the danger of a counterattack and the breaking of an armistice."

The memorandum quoted "an informed source in the office of the U. S. political adviser, SCAP" (Supreme Commander, Allied Powers: Ridgway).

The memorandum was distributed through the mimeographing Department of Ridgway's public information office.

A State Department official said it was not intended for publication but he did not ask that it be withheld. He said it was written only to give general headquarters officers the background on State Department thinking concerning the Russian proposal.

Department Supports

The official said the State Department would stand by everything in the memorandum.

He authorized Japanese newspapers to use it for background.

It purported to discuss "State Department comment upon Soviet UN Delegate Jacob A. Malik's proposal for negotiation of a cease-fire in Korea."

The memorandum said "a number of considerations entered into the extreme caution with which the State Department commented upon" Malik's proposal.

Seems Too Frontal

"Informed officials * * * pointed out that the proposal itself seemed too frontal and public, a device which has not characterized previous Soviet actions."

The memorandum concluded: "If Mr. Malik's proposal was a political move designed to awaken respect, it was emphasized that the Russians do not usually proceed in the manner of Mr. Malik's talk. The speech itself reads like a political position to Soviet experts in Washington. If it was the idea of Mr. Malik's speech to make a bona fide political approach, it is not supported by any information the State Department has received from other sources."

Pravda Asks Conflict Be Settled for Easing of Tensions

United Nations, N. Y., June 26 (AP)—General Assembly President Nasrollah Entezam took personal charge today of growing United Nations efforts to determine Moscow's terms for ending the war in Korea.

Entezam arrived late yesterday from Washington with the announced plan of seeing chief Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik as quickly as possible. Malik startled the world Saturday with a suggestion that the belligerents discuss a cease-fire and an armistice in which the opposing forces would withdraw from the 38th Parallel.

UN delegates, puzzled by the lack of further conditions and frankly suspecting a Communist trick somewhere along the way, immediately began trying for a fuller explanation of Moscow's stand.

Some Optimistic

While some western diplomats stationed in Moscow adopted a wait and see attitude, others expressed optimism that the time might be near for over-all big power talks which might ease international tension. These observers pointed out that the Malik remarks were obviously well calculated in advance with full Kremlin consultation, and apparently were aimed at bringing about some kind of negotiations to end the Korean war. The general consensus among the diplomats in the Soviet capital was one of guarded optimism.

In Washington Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said the Malik proposal should be given careful consideration, and not be rejected simply as a piece of propaganda. He added:

"If there is any hope of securing peace by negotiation, let us have it."

May Feel Out Moscow

There have been hints in Washington that the U. S. may feel out Moscow through Ambassador Alan G. Kirk.

Some Washington observers still express the feeling that strings will be attached to the Korean peace bid, such as a part for Red China in Japanese treaty negotiations. There were demands from Washington lawmakers that the U. S. be wary of any appeasement.

UN Assembly President Entezam hoped to see Malik before the Assembly met today at Flushing Meadows, informed sources said. Malik was reported last night slightly indisposed at his summer home in Glen Cove. Malik has been suffering heart trouble for months. He has asked for reservations to sail July 6 on the Swedish liner Gripsholm en route to a vacation and rest in Russia.

Editorial Printed

Moscow, June 26 (AP) — Pravda printed an editorial today urging peaceful settlement of the Korean conflict.

The official Communist party newspaper, in the first Soviet press comment on the matter, gave its full approval to the proposal of Jacob A. Malik, Soviet United Nations delegate, who proposed in a New York radio address Saturday that the belligerents in Korea discuss a cease-fire.

Pravda said:

"The cessation of war activity and the peaceful settlement of the conflict in Korea will remove one of the most important causes of tension in the present international situation.

"At the same time it will give the opportunity to the Korean people to return to a peaceful life and arrange their own affairs."

Pravda said Malik's proposals showed how the Soviet people felt about Korea.

"The Soviet people are convinced that there exist all possibilities for a peaceful settlement of the Korean question," it said.

The editorial, written by Political Commentator M. Kharlamov, was entitled "For Peaceful Solu-

Commander Delivers Statement on Trip to Front to See Rhee

Tokyo, June 26 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today he didn't know what was happening to cease-fire proposals "but things look better than ever."

The allied commander made the statement on a flying visit to South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

The war flared anew, fanned by new Chinese fighting spirit on the ground and aggressiveness in the air. Red planes twice struck at U. S. B-29 Superfort bombers and engaged in two battles with American Sabre jets. One Red MIG-15 was shot down.

Communists fought so stubbornly on the western flank of the erratic 100-mile front one officer said "indications are the Chinese are preparing for an offensive.

Carries Briefcase

Ridgway bore a bulging briefcase when he called on the Korean president. Of the Russian peace bid, endorsed by the Chinese radio, Ridgway said:

"I would want an iron clad agreement. I am not willing to take a bill of goods."

He also visited the front. He said it was just one of his usual trips, "had no connection with anything regarding a cease-fire."

Before he returned, a memorandum came out of his Tokyo headquarters raising official doubts about the latest Communist cease-fire proposal. It questioned the suggestion as a Russian "political move" that might give the enemy a military advantage.

There was no cessation of firing on the fronts, ranging from

Louis Stops Negotiations

New York, June 26 (AP) — Joe Louis broke off all negotiations for a proposed Berlin bout with Hein Ten Hoff today because of the bottle throwing episode at the Ray Robinson-Gerhardt Hecht fight last Sunday night. The Brown Bomber's manager, Marshall Miles, said "we're not going to fight over there. Joe was not happy over the reports he's read on Ray's Berlin fight. "We had virtually settled on the financial terms with Promoter Fred Kirsch for a bout with Ten Hoff in Berlin in August but now it's off. Kirsch cabled me Friday and was to have contacted me yesterday but he didn't. I guess he's been too busy in Berlin because of what happened."

Hearing Scheduled On Plan to End Name Duplications

A hearing will be held in the Common Council chamber, city hall, Thursday at 7:30 p. m., on the proposal made a year ago to change the names of city streets which have caused confusion because of duplication or similarity of names.

Alderman Abram D. Relyea, 11th Ward, chairman of the council's Laws and Rules Committee, will conduct the hearing to provide opportunity for discussion of the proposed changes before final action.

The list of names prepared through cooperation of the City Planning Board and City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan was submitted to the council June 7, 1950. It contained 24 streets with names that were similar or duplicated and revealed in a few instances that streets and avenues such as Washington, High and Park were in triplicate.

The proposal was one of the first submitted to the local planning board.

Police, Firemen Seek Referendum

Would Boost Minimum Salary Requirements for Personnel

Local police and firemen began circulation of a petition today that would bring up for a referendum next November 6 the question of proposed minimum salary increases for the personnel of both departments.

Members of the departments in a joint move decided to circulate petitions in order to meet the required legal date in advance of the next regular election date, after no action was taken by either the police or fire board on the wage proposals.

Attorney Frank Martocci, who is representing the men of both departments said that the required number of names must be obtained on the petitions by next week and he said first results today indicated that the petition is "apparently being well received."

About $700 Each

The increase asked for would mean roughly about $700 a man, in some cases slightly less and in a few perhaps slightly more, the attorney said.

To Attend Session

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk will attend a session in Albany tomorrow where new compensation law affecting volunteer civil defense workers in municipalities will be explained by Miss Mary Donlon, chairman of the New York State Compensation Board. The meeting is scheduled for 1:30 p. m. in the Assembly chamber.

Will Move Girder

Work is expected to start tomorrow on the moving of the first 90-ton girder on the west side of the railroad overpass of the Broadway crossing project, Henry Millonig, state engineer, said today. A temporary wooden bridge with tracks and railroad trucks will be used to move the huge girders in place.

Bride, 19, Is Abducted by Two Gunmen From Her Apartment

Arlington, Va., June 26 (AP)—A 19-year old bride of ten days was abducted from her bed early today by two gunmen who, she told police, took her to a scenic spot 10 miles away and attacked her.

Mrs. James Hotchkiss said that after the alleged attacks she was driven back near her ground-floor apartment and dumped out of the car. Records indicate she is the daughter of a socially-prominent Winnetka, Ill., family.

She was found by Lieutenant W. Lynn Smith of the Arlington police who had her rushed by ambulance to Arlington Hospital.

There she told doctors each man had attacked her twice.

Less than an hour later police picked up John Robert Polk, 19, of Arlington, and charged him with kidnapping.

Police described Polk as man long known to them for what they called a series of minor charges. They said he admitted that both he and his companion attacked the young bride.

Shortly afterwards, William Robert Payne, 19, of Bethesda, Md., was picked up by Fairfax county police and also charged with kidnapping.

Payne, police said, had left Polk and Polk's car after the alleged attacks. They said he was frightened, and decided to hitchhike back to town. He was picked up by a police automobile and quickly arrested.

Police said Polk told them he had planned to kill Mrs. Hotchkiss, but that his gun, a .22 rifle, jammed when he tried to pull the trigger.

An examination of the gun, police said, showed it had in fact jammed.

In Winnetka, Hotchkiss' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hotchkiss, told newsmen they hurried over to the home of Mrs. Hotchkiss' mother and talked by phone to the young bride, who has been taken back to her apartment here.

The hospital said Mrs. Hotchkiss, who was hysterical, had severe bruises on her neck and shoulders.

The attractive blonde told doctors the two men had choked and strangled her to keep her from crying out.

Doctors said it was not possible to determine definitely whether Mrs. Hotchkiss had actually been criminally assaulted.

Hotchkiss, a naval ensign, gave newsmen this account:

One of the men appeared at the open window of the couple's Colonial Village apartment, waving a gun.

"Get out of there," Hotchkiss

Woodbridge Wreck Blamed Upon Excessive Train Speed

Newark, N. J., June 26 (AP)—The cause of the disastrous Woodbridge train wreck February 6 was excessive speed—60 to 65 miles an hour—the state board of public utility commissioners said today.

And under the rules of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the direct responsibility for operation of the train was on the engineer and conductor, the PUC declared.

Eighty-five persons were killed in the wreck of the "Broker," crack Pennsylvania commuter train.

In its long-awaited report, the PUC found the engineer, Joseph F. Fitzsimmons, did not reduce the speed of the train to 25 MPH at the Woodbridge temporary trestle, as required in a general order of the railroad.

The PUC further found that the entire effectiveness of the speed restriction at Woodbridge depended on the memory of the engineer—he had to remember the general order. The railroad placed no lights or other signals to indicate the slow zone was coming, the findings showed.

After listing 13 specific findings of its inquiry, the commission is-

Shortly afterwards, William Robert Payne, 19, of Bethesda, Md., was picked up by Fairfax county police and also charged with kidnapping.

Payne, police said, had left Polk and Polk's car after the alleged attacks. They said he was frightened, and decided to hitchhike back to town. He was picked up by a police automobile and quickly arrested.

Police said Polk told them he had planned to kill Mrs. Hotchkiss, but that his gun, a .22 rifle, jammed when he tried to pull the trigger.

An examination of the gun, police said, showed it had in fact jammed.

In Winnetka, Hotchkiss' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hotchkiss, told newsmen they hurried over to the home of Mrs. Hotchkiss' mother and talked by phone to the young bride, who has been taken back to her apartment here.

The hospital said Mrs. Hotchkiss, who was hysterical, had severe bruises on her neck and shoulders.

The attractive blonde told doctors the two men had choked and strangled her to keep her from crying out.

Doctors said it was not possible to determine definitely whether Mrs. Hotchkiss had actually been criminally assaulted.

Hotchkiss, a naval ensign, gave newsmen this account:

One of the men appeared at the open window of the couple's Colonial Village apartment, waving a gun.

"Get out of there," Hotchkiss

Ridgway Says Soviet Proposal Is Too Open, Suggests 'Politics'

Talk Held Over Who Was Right

Senate Inquiry Is Ended and McMahon Says MacArthur-ites Lose Their Case

Meeting Scheduled

Joint Committee Plans to Discuss Reports on Investigation

Washington, June 26 (AP)—The stormy Senate inquiry into the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur appears ended, but debate continued almost as hot as ever today over who was right—President Truman or MacArthur.

Here is an example of the sharp division in the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees which conducted the 42-day investigation:

Senator McMahon (D.-Conn.): "The MacArthur-ites have lost their case."

Senator Brewster (R.-Me.): "The record of the hearings pretty completely devastates the Truman administration's case."

The indications are some of the other 24 members of the inquiry panel will line up with McMahon, some with Brewster, while others probably will take positions somewhere in between.

The lengthy investigation — it started May 3 — came yesterday to what most members regard as a permanent halt so far as oral testimony is concerned.

Not Foreclosing Possibility

Chairman Russell (D.-Ga.) said he wasn't foreclosing the possibility of other witnesses being called, but he added he doubts they will be.

The joint committee will meet tomorrow or Thursday to discuss plans for reports on the investigation and to arrange for possible submission of written statements from some persons who did not testify.

The committee's last scheduled witness, the 13th, was Maj. Gen. Emmett (Rosie) O'Donnell, whose testimony brought the voluminous record to a total of approximately 2,045,000 words.

O'Donnell, now commander of the 15th Air Force and former chief of the Far Eastern Bomber Command, testified the United Nations forces in Korea "made a mistake" by not bombing Manchurian supply bases when the Chinese Reds came into the war last November.

But he said bombing those bases now might weaken this country's "Sunday punch" for Russia if the Soviets decided to start World War III.

Inquiry Shapes Up

The Senate Committee's inquiry began to shape up as soon as Mr. Truman fired MacArthur on April 11.

The five-star general was re-

Mossadegh Requests British Technicians to Stay on Job

Premier Fails to Say Whether Drastic Document Would Be Withdrawn; Ambassador Protests Possible Death Penalties

Tehran, Iran, June 26 (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh in a message broadcast today appealed to British oil technicians to stay on the job for the Iranian government. But he failed to say whether he would withdraw a drastic anti-sabotage bill carrying possible death penalties.

British Ambassador Sir Frances Shepherd yesterday protested against the bill, introduced in Parliament last week by Mossadegh. Sir Francis said its passage would result in wholesome resignations of the 3,000 British employes of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. He said they would be fearful of being accused of sabotage in event of accidents.

The Mossadegh message said mass British resignations would "be a loss not only for Iran but for the western powers."

Iran's board of directors, which is attempting to take over the British-owned AIOC under the nationalization law, already has accused Eric Drake, 40-year-old British field boss at the Abadan refinery, with sabotage. He has refused to let British tanker captains sign receipts acknowledging Iranian ownership of oil loaded on their ships.

Latest reports from Abadan said 27 tankers were immobilized by the dispute over receipts for the oil. The pumping of oil aboard tankers had ceased and the refinery rapidly was filling up its storage tanks.

Once the tanks are full, the refinery would have to shut down—a possibly dangerous operation.

Drake has warned the Iranians that "if we are forced to shut down you must name responsible officials to take over immediately a dangerous situation—unless you want to see Abadan go up in flames."

The Iranian board yesterday gave Drake an ultimatum to decide by 8 p. m. Thursday to work for the Iranian government or get out.

An AIOC spokesman said Derek Hobson, manager of the small refinery at Kermanshah, had advised the Iranians that the score of British technicians there would resign collectively if Iran's restrictions are not lifted.

Hobson has been forbidden by the Iranians to enter his office at Kermanshah. He has been carrying on the management from his home.

All British wives and children at Kermanshah, 300 miles north of Abadan, have been evacuated except for Hobson's wife.

Memorandum Brands Offer as Attempt to Boost Reds Militarily

Tokyo, June 26 (AP)—A memorandum circulated at Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters today said U. S. State Department officials consider a Soviet proposal for a Korean cease-fire "too frontal and too public."

It questioned the proposal as a Russian "political move" and virtually branded it "a move * * * to place the enemy in a better position militarily."

And it warned: "There is always the danger of a counterattack and the breaking of an armistice."

The memorandum quoted "an informed source in the office of the U. S. political adviser, SCAP" (Supreme Commander, Allied Powers: Ridgway).

The memorandum was distributed through the mimeographing Department of Ridgway's public information office.

A State Department official said it was not intended for publication but he did not ask that it be withheld. He said it was written only to give general headquarters officers the background on State Department thinking concerning the Russian proposal.

Department Supports

The official said the State Department would stand by everything in the memorandum.

He authorized Japanese newspapers to use it for background.

It purported to discuss "State Department comment upon Soviet UN Delegate Jacob A. Malik's proposal for negotiation of a cease-fire in Korea."

The memorandum said "a number of considerations entered into the extreme caution with which the State Department commented upon" Malik's proposal.

Seems Too Frontal

"Informed officials * * * pointed out that the proposal itself seemed too frontal and public, a device which has not characterized previous Soviet actions."

The memorandum concluded: "If Mr. Malik's proposal was a political move designed to awaken respect, it was emphasized that the Russians do not usually proceed in the manner of Mr. Malik's talk. The speech itself reads like a political position to Soviet experts in Washington. If it was the idea of Mr. Malik's speech to make a bona fide political approach, it is not supported by any information the State Department has received from other sources."

Louis Stops Negotiations

New York, June 26 (AP) — Joe Louis broke off all negotiations for a proposed Berlin bout with Hein Ten Hoff today because of the bottle throwing episode at the Ray Robinson-Gerhardt Hecht fight last Sunday night. The Brown Bomber's manager, Marshall Miles, said "we're not going to fight over there. Joe was not happy over the reports he's read on Ray's Berlin fight. "We had virtually settled on the financial terms with Promoter Fred Kirsch for a bout with Ten Hoff in Berlin in August but now it's off. Kirsch cabled me Friday and was to have contacted me yesterday but he didn't. I guess he's been too busy in Berlin because of what happened."

General Says Things Better Than Ever in Korean War

Commander Delivers Statement on Trip to Front to See Rhee

Tokyo, June 26 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today he didn't know what was happening to cease-fire proposals "but things look better than ever."

The allied commander made the statement on a flying visit to South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

The war flared anew, fanned by new Chinese fighting spirit on the ground and aggressiveness in the air. Red planes twice struck at U. S. B-29 Superfort bombers and engaged in two battles with American Sabre jets. One Red MIG-15 was shot down.

Communists fought so stubbornly on the western flank of the erratic 100-mile front one officer said "indications are the Chinese are preparing for an offensive.

Carries Briefcase

Ridgway bore a bulging briefcase when he called on the Korean president. Of the Russian peace bid, endorsed by the Chinese radio, Ridgway said:

"I would want an iron clad agreement. I am not willing to take a bill of goods."

He also visited the front. He said it was just one of his usual trips, "had no connection with anything regarding a cease-fire."

Before he returned, a memorandum came out of his Tokyo headquarters raising official doubts about the latest Communist cease-fire proposal. It questioned the suggestion as a Russian "political move" that might give the enemy a military advantage.

There was no cessation of firing on the fronts, ranging from

Woodbridge Wreck Blamed Upon Excessive Train Speed

Newark, N. J., June 26 (AP)—The cause of the disastrous Woodbridge train wreck February 6 was excessive speed—60 to 65 miles an hour—the state board of public utility commissioners said today.

And under the rules of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the direct responsibility for operation of the train was on the engineer and conductor, the PUC declared.

Eighty-five persons were killed in the wreck of the "Broker," crack Pennsylvania commuter train.

In its long-awaited report, the PUC found the engineer, Joseph F. Fitzsimmons, did not reduce the speed of the train to 25 MPH at the Woodbridge temporary trestle, as required in a general order of the railroad.

The PUC further found that the entire effectiveness of the speed restriction at Woodbridge depended on the memory of the engineer—he had to remember the general order. The railroad placed no lights or other signals to indicate the slow zone was coming, the findings showed.

After listing 13 specific findings of its inquiry, the commission is-

Plans Talks With Malik On Matter

Full Explanation Asked, Because Soviet Trick Suspected Somewhere Along Way

Pravda Asks Conflict Be Settled for Easing of Tensions

United Nations, N. Y., June 26 (AP)—General Assembly President Nasrollah Entezam took personal charge today of growing United Nations efforts to determine Moscow's terms for ending the war in Korea.

Entezam arrived late yesterday from Washington with the announced plan of seeing chief Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik as quickly as possible. Malik startled the world Saturday with a suggestion that the belligerents discuss a cease-fire and an armistice in which the opposing forces would withdraw from the 38th Parallel.

UN delegates, puzzled by the lack of further conditions and frankly suspecting a Communist trick somewhere along the way, immediately began trying for a fuller explanation of Moscow's stand.

Some Optimistic

While some western diplomats stationed in Moscow adopted a wait and see attitude, others expressed optimism that the time might be near for over-all big power talks which might ease international tension. These observers pointed out that the Malik remarks were obviously well calculated in advance with full Kremlin consultation, and apparently were aimed at bringing about some kind of negotiations to end the Korean war. The general consensus among the diplomats in the Soviet capital was one of guarded optimism.

In Washington Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said the Malik proposal should be given careful consideration, and not be rejected simply as a piece of propaganda. He added:

"If there is any hope of securing peace by negotiation, let us have it."

May Feel Out Moscow

There have been hints in Washington that the U. S. may feel out Moscow through Ambassador Alan G. Kirk.

Some Washington observers still express the feeling that strings will be attached to the Korean peace bid, such as a part for Red China in Japanese treaty negotiations. There were demands from Washington lawmakers that the U. S. be wary of any appeasement.

UN Assembly President Entezam hoped to see Malik before the Assembly met today at Flushing Meadows, informed sources said. Malik was reported last night slightly indisposed at his summer home in Glen Cove. Malik has been suffering heart trouble for months. He has asked for reservations to sail July 6 on the Swedish liner Gripsholm en route to a vacation and rest in Russia.

Editorial Printed

Moscow, June 26 (AP) — Pravda printed an editorial today urging peaceful settlement of the Korean conflict.

The official Communist party newspaper, in the first Soviet press comment on the matter, gave its full approval to the proposal of Jacob A. Malik, Soviet United Nations delegate, who proposed in a New York radio address Saturday that the belligerents in Korea discuss a cease-fire.

Pravda said:

"The cessation of war activity and the peaceful settlement of the conflict in Korea will remove one of the most important causes of tension in the present international situation.

"At the same time it will give the opportunity to the Korean people to return to a peaceful life and arrange their own affairs."

Pravda said Malik's proposals showed how the Soviet people felt about Korea.

"The Soviet people are convinced that there exist all possibilities for a peaceful settlement of the Korean question," it said.

The editorial, written by Political Commentator M. Kharlamov, was entitled "For Peaceful Soluning board.

Hearing Scheduled On Plan to End Name Duplications

A hearing will be held in the Common Council chamber, city hall, Thursday at 7:30 p. m., on the proposal made a year ago to change the names of city streets which have caused confusion because of duplication or similarity of names.

Alderman Abram D. Relyea, 11th Ward, chairman of the council's Laws and Rules Committee, will conduct the hearing to provide opportunity for discussion of the proposed changes before final action.

The list of names prepared through cooperation of the City Planning Board and City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan was submitted to the council June 7, 1950. It contained 24 streets with names that were similar or duplicated and revealed in a few instances that streets and avenues such as Washington, High and Park were in triplicate.

The proposal was one of the first submitted to the local plan-

RAMPANT RISK

Today, there are flies in every investment ointment. Which is to say that economic risk has never been more rampant in the capitalist world than at the present time. Investment and speculation are circumscribed by a score of major social, economic and political factors. Choosing the lesser of risks is at once the problem of those with dollars to be employed.

A widow, for example, who inherits $50,000 from her husband's estate, can deposit her money in New York city savings banks and, without loss of principal, she can get $1,000 a year in interest on her capital. What is that? It is $83.33 a month. Unless she spends some of her capital monthly, she can't live on this. So she writes to her niece: "If you will let me come and live with you, I will leave you the money Uncle George left me."

Her risk involves inconvenience, unhappiness and economic deprivation. She has had her own home for 40 years. She could order her own life. And, until her husband's passing, such terrific economic pressure as she is about to be put under was unknown. There are thousands of widows, widowers, annuitants and pensioners similarly situated.

Then again, a society, an organization, a charity, a church, a lodge with capital to invest may buy government securities. This afternoon I attended a meeting of religious leaders who paid 104 for $100,000 low yielding bonds within the past two years. The income from the obligations failed lamentably to keep pace with rising living costs.

However, this was not the reason why the committee called a hurried meeting. The bonds are down to 98 and with a paper loss of $6,000, the chairman got a little rattled because he fears interest rates are going higher and high grade bond prices lower. Two years ago, the committee was told: "90 cents a-dozen eggs and 2½ per cent yearly interest don't make sense."

Risk here means that the beneficiaries of this fund, religiously constituted and administered, will not get the increased allowances they want and that eventually capital losses will probably have to be taken.

In the third place, stockholders—those people whom this column champions—must also look stark risk right in the face.

Recently in this space, I pointed out that during 1950, three leading American corporations paid the immense sum of 1775 millions of dollars in taxes. They are: General Motors, American Telephone and Telegraph and United States Steel.

During the same period these corporations paid their owners—the stockholders—892 millions of dollars. But wait a minute: these dividends were again heavily taxed by the Federal and State governments. At least 1/3rd of these dividend declarations went to tax collectors.

That means that the stockholders finally took down around 600 millions of earnings from the enterprises where they have assumed all the risk. Add even 225 millions to the 1775 millions already collected (and this is very conservative) and one can see that the tax collectors are getting a cool 2000 millions in cash revenues over against 600 millions for the owners.

The out-and-out socialists couldn't dream of better pickings than those of 1950! And the Communists must be laughing up their sleeves!

A truthful placard depicting the 1950 economic scene might read something like this:

"Wanted, millions of American investors to risk their savings in such world renowned enterprises as General Motors, American Telephone and Telegraph and United States Steel. We—the tax collectors of America—will pay you in dividends (if any are earned) 23 per cent of the take. And as tax collectors, we will take the other 73 per cent."

Yes, risk is rampant in our capitalistic system. It is as omnipresent in our national economic life as are air and light and water in the physical universe. Trying to escape it gets one nowhere. So, investment and speculation involve the proper selection of risk.

Marines Seeking Full Platoon in Kingson Area

Staff Sergeant Charles C. Awkerman, noncommissioned officer in charge of U. S. Marine Corps recruiting in Kingston has received authority to form a marine recruit platoon from this area to leave for training at Parris Island, S. C., about July 25.

Men that enlist for this special platoon will be together in the same unit, train together, and come home together on their 10-day recruit leave after they finish their training. It is possible that groups of these men will be stationed together.

At present this special platoon is being referred to as the Marine Corps Mystery Platoon. A contest is being held to name this unit and the winning title will be given the Mystery Platoon shortly before it leaves for training at Parris Island. A twenty-five dollar War Bond has been put up for the person whose platoon title is selected as the winner.

All persons are eligible for the Mystery Platoon Contest. By merely addressing a cost card to The Mystery Platoon, Bardovan Theatre, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., with a return address and platoon title, anyone may take part in the contest.

Dead Line July 21

Three prominent citizens from the Newburgh, Poughkeepsie and Kingston area will be selected as judges. Their decision will be final. All contest entries submitted must be marked not later than midnight, July 21.

The important thing concerning the Marine Corps Mystery Platoon is that the Marine Corps has guaranteed that men enlisting with their buddies for this platoon will remain together in the same unit while undergoing recruit training at Parris Island. This system is a novel idea in training. Applications are being accepted immediately from those men who can meet the enlistment requirements.

Men interested in filling a billet of the Marine Corps Mystery Platoon may get detailed information from the Kingston Marine recruiting office in the central post office building. The office is open Monday through Friday, 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

School No. 1 Parents Request New Hearing on Closing Move

Parents of children attending School No. 1 in the 13th Ward last night moved for new hearing on the proposal to close the school when the question was aired before Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly last night in the city court room in the absence of Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk.

The alderman-at-large said their request would be forwarded to the Board of Education following an informal discussion of the proposal.

The group, led by Morris Salkind, drew up a request asking that "the entire question of closing School No. 1 be reopened at the next meeting of the Board of Education and that the people of the 13th Ward and the public generally be invited to such a hearing."

Copies of Letter

Members of the group had with them copies of a letter from the education board to Mrs. Henry Filiatrault who had written to ask the board, what the saving would be in transferring the children, what would be the cost of educating them in the other school, what was the per capita cost for educating children in grade schools of the city, and whether transportation would be provided for all children including those in kindergarten.

The board's reply on this was that the saving would be $10,763.80, and said this did not include interest on investment. It also said there would be a saving by the transfer of teachers because this would preclude hiring new ones.

Cost Is Cited

The board's letter placed the per capita cost of educating a grammar school pupil at $354.68 per pupil per year. The letter said the board planned to transport all children including those of kintergarten age and it pointed to the advantages of facilities in a larger school as compared to those in a small school.

Among those arguing against moving pupils from School No. 1 to School No. 8 was Francis O'Neill, who said that transferring the children to the larger school, to him was tantamount to regimentation and he was opposed to that. He felt that the environment where there were greater numbers was less conducive to better moral conditions. The children would later go to the Washington school.

Another argument advanced in support of keeping the school in the area was that it was part of the tradition of the neighborhood and the school was one of the few public buildings left in the neighborhood.

The request to be forwarded to the board of education was framed by Morris Salkind. Others at the session were: Amy Salkind, Mrs. Ray Conlin, Mrs. Andrew Hricisak, Vincent Fallon, and Frank J. McCardle.

School Superintendent Arthur J. Laidlaw and Commissioners C. J. Rowland and Robert Herzog of the education board also attended and answered questions, many of which were similar to those in the letter of Mrs. Filiatrault.

Britain Orders Cruiser to Iran

Londay, June 26 (AP)—Britain today ordered the cruiser Mauritius to "proceed forthwith" to the vicinity of Abadan, the Iranian oil port where 27 tankers are caught in a jam dispute over payments for oil.

British Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison, announcing the action in the House of Commons, said the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company has ordered all its tankers to leave Abadan immediately.

Ten of the tankers are loaded with oil but have been refused clearance by Iranian authorities because the captains refused to sign receipts acknowledging payment was due Iran's new nationalized oil company.

The captains with oil aboard were told to pump it off if necessary to obtain clearance Morrison said.

With Full Agreement

The company isued its order "with the full agreement of his majesty's government." Morrison announced. He described the situation as very serious.

Departure of all tankers presumably would mean the shutdown of the Abadan refinery, the world's largest. It is filling storage tanks because of the shipping tieup. There is enough storage capacity to keep the refinery going about a week.

Morrison said if Iran persists in her present tactics AIOC will be forced to halt operations "within a matter of days."

He warned that Britain will hold Iran "responsible under international law for insuring the protection of any British subjects in Persia." Morrison added:

"Should they prove incapable of discharging that task the British government would be compelled to assume it themselves, using such means as are necessary for that purpose.

"The House may rest assured that preparations have been made to take action at short notice."

Mountaindale Man Put on Probation

Luther Hitt of Mountaindale was given a year in the Ulster county jail this morning by County Judge John M. Cashin under a plea of guilty to unlawful entry. The jail sentence was suspended and Hitt was placed on probation for the full period of three years. A burglary, third degree, count of the indictment was dismissed on motion of Robert Ortale who appeared for Hitt.

Hitt, with another defendant, Grilz, were accused of a series of burglaries in Sullivan county and Ulster county. It was charged they entered boarding houses near the county line and removed stoves which were disposed of in Newburgh. Both were also indicted in Sullivan county. Attorney Ortale told the court Hitt was working on two jobs in an effort to make restitution. Bail in the case was exonerated.

District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn informed the court that there still was business for the grand jury and Judge Cashin directed the grand jury to continue its deliberations.

Court recessed until July 17 at 10 o'clock.

Secretary of Defense Marshall, the joint chiefs of staff and Secretary of State Achenson followed MacArthur to the stand. They backed Mr. Truman on the war strategy.

On the other hand, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, former commander of U. S. forces in China, went along generally with MacArthur's plan. He said the U.N. forces should fight a decisive victory or get out of Korea.

The committee also heard Louis Johnson, former secretary of defense; Vice Adm. Oscar Badger, former naval commander in the Far East; Patrick J. Hurley, World War II ambassador to China; Maj. Gen. David J. Barr, who commanded the Seventh Division in Korea until recently and previously headed the military misssion to China; and O'Donnell.

RAMPANT RISK

Today, there are flies in every investment ointment. Which is to say that economic risk has never been more rampant in the capitalist world than at the present time. Investment and speculation are circumscribed by a score of major social, economic and political factors. Choosing the lesser of risks is at once the problem of those with dollars to be employed.

A widow, for example, who inherits $50,000 from her husband's estate, can deposit her money in New York city savings banks and, without loss of principal, she can get $1,000 a year in interest on her capital. What is that? It is $83.33 a month. Unless she spends some of her capital monthly, she can't live on this. So she writes to her niece: "If you will let me come and live with you, I will leave you the money Uncle George left me."

Her risk involves inconvenience, unhappiness and economic deprivation. She has had her own home for 40 years. She could order her own life. And, until her husband's passing, such terrific economic pressure as she is about to be put under was unknown. There are thousands of widows, widowers, annuitants and pensioners similarly situated.

Then again, a society, an organization, a charity, a church, a lodge with capital to invest may buy government securities. This afternoon I attended a meeting of religious leaders who paid 104 for $100,000 low yielding bonds within the past two years. The income from the obligations failed lamentably to keep pace with rising living costs.

However, this was not the reason why the committee called a hurried meeting. The bonds are down to 98 and with a paper loss of $6,000, the chairman got a little rattled because he fears interest rates are going higher and high grade bond prices lower. Two years ago, the committee was told: "90 cents a dozen eggs and 2½ per cent yearly interest don't make sense."

Risk here means that the beneficiaries of this fund, religiously constituted and administered, will not get the increased allowances they want and that eventually capital losses will probably have to be taken.

In the third place, stockholders—those people whom this column champions—must also look stark risk right in the face.

Recently in this space, I pointed out that during 1950, three leading American corporations paid the immense sum of 1775 millions of dollars in taxes. They are: General Motors, American Telephone and Telegraph and United States Steel.

During the same period these corporations paid their owners—the stockholders—892 millions of dollars. But wait a minute: these dividends were again heavily taxed by the Federal and State governments. At least 1/3rd of these dividend declarations went to tax collectors.

That means that the stockholders finally took down around 600 millions of earnings from the enterprises where they have assumed all the risk. Add even 225 millions to the 1775 millions already collected (and this is very conservative) and one can see that the tax collectors are getting a cool 2000 millions in cash revenues over against 600 millions for the owners.

The out-and-out socialists couldn't dream of better pickings than those of 1950! And the Communists must be laughing up their sleeves!

A truthful placard depicting the 1950 economic scene might read something like this:

"Wanted, millions of American investors to risk their savings in such world renowned enterprises as General Motors, American Telephone and Telegraph and United States Steel. We—the tax collectors of America—will pay you in dividends (if any are earned) 23 per cent of the take. And as tax collectors, we will take the other 73 per cent."

Yes, risk is rampant in our capitalistic system. It is as omnipresent in our national economic life as are air and light and water in the physical universe. Trying to escape it gets one nowhere. So, investment and speculation involve the proper selection of risk.

Marines Seeking Full Platoon in Kingson Area

Staff Sergeant Charles C. Awkerman, noncommissioned officer in charge of U. S. Marine Corps recruiting in Kingston has received authority to form a marine recruit platoon from this area to leave for training at Parris Island, S. C., about July 25.

Men that enlist for this special platoon will be together in the same unit, train together, and come home together on their 10-day recruit leave after they finish their training. It is possible that groups of these men will be stationed together.

At present this special platoon is being referred to as the Marine Corps Mystery Platoon. A contest is being held to name this unit and the winning title will be given the Mystery Platoon shortly before it leaves for training at Parris Island. A twenty-five dollar War Bond has been put up for the person whose platoon title is selected as the winner.

All persons are eligible for the Mystery Platoon Contest. By merely addressing a cost card to The Mystery Platoon, Bardovan Theatre, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., with a return address and platoon title, anyone may take part in the contest.

Dead Line July 21

Three prominent citizens from the Newburgh, Poughkeepsie and Kingston area will be selected as judges. Their decision will be final. All contest entries submitted must be marked not later than midnight, July 21.

The important thing concerning the Marine Corps Mystery Platoon is that the Marine Corps has guaranteed that men enlisting with their buddies for this platoon will remain together in the same unit while undergoing recruit training at Parris Island. This system is a novel idea in training. Applications are being accepted immediately from those men who can meet the enlistment requirements.

Men interested in filling a billet of the Marine Corps Mystery Platoon may get detailed information from the Kingston Marine recruiting office in the central post office building. The office is open Monday through Friday, 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

School No. 1 Parents Request New Hearing on Closing Move

Parents of children attending School No. 1 in the 13th Ward last night moved for new hearing on the proposal to close the school when the question was aired before Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly last night in the city court room in the absence of Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk.

The alderman-at-large said their request would be forwarded to the Board of Education following an informal discussion of the proposal.

The group, led by Morris Salkind, drew up a request asking that "the entire question of closing School No. 1 be reopened at the next meeting of the Board of Education and that the people of the 13th Ward and the public generally be invited to such a hearing."

Copies of Letter

Members of the group had with them copies of a letter from the education board to Mrs. Henry Filiatrault who had written to ask the board, what the saving would be in transferring the children, what would be the cost of educating them in the other school, what was the per capita cost for educating children in grade schools of the city, and whether transportation would be provided for all children including those in kindergarten.

The board's reply on this was that the saving would be $10,763.80, and said this did not include interest on investment. It also said there would be a saving by the transfer of teachers because this would preclude hiring new ones.

Cost Is Cited

The board's letter placed the per capita cost of educating a grammar school pupil at $354.68 per pupil per year. The letter said the board planned to transport all children including those of kintergarten age and it pointed to the advantages of facilities in a larger school as compared to those in a small school.

Among those arguing against moving pupils from School No. 1 to School No. 8 was Francis O'Neill, who said that transferring the children to the larger school, to him was tantamount to regimentation and he was opposed to that. He felt that the environment where there were greater numbers was less conducive to better moral conditions. The children would later go to the Washington school.

Another argument advanced in support of keeping the school in the area was that it was part of the tradition of the neighborhood and the school was one of the few public buildings left in the neighborhood.

The request to be forwarded to the board of education was framed by Morris Salkind. Others at the session were: Amy Salkind, Mrs. Ray Conlin, Mrs. Andrew Hricisak, Vincent Fallon, and Frank J. McCardle.

School Superintendent Arthur J. Laidlaw and Commissioners C. J. Rowland and Robert Herzog of the education board also attended and answered questions, many of which were similar to those in the letter of Mrs. Filiatrault.

Severest Penalty Asked

Budapest, Hungary, June 26 (AP)—Prosecutor Gyula Alapi demanded the "severest punishment," meaning death, for Roman Catholic Archbishop Joszef Groesz and his eight companions today and the archbishop threw himself on the mercy of the court in a final statement of repentance. "I declare I repent and regret what I did," said the sombre 64-year-old archbishop, who confessed at his trial that he conspired to overthrow the Communist government by arms and with American help."

Can Stop Heat Loss

Unused fireplaces that are not equipped with draft controls permit a great deal of heat to escape up the chimney. The loss can be reduced by cutting a screen of wallboard or insulating board to fit snugly across the opening. The screen can be painted or otherwise decorated to harmonize with the scheme of the room.

You'll naturally want advice . . . the best you can get.

Where do I get it? One sure place is in an office of a member firm of the New York Stock Exchange.

How will they help me? By talking over with you what you want to do and how to do it. The benefit of their experience is yours for the asking.

Can I talk in confidence? Yes. Your problem is a personal one . . . it involves your hard-earned cash . . . your broker will respect those facts.

Will he recommend a particular stock? Of course, if you ask for his professional opinion. His recommendation . . .whether a stock with a long dividend record, or stock in an expanding company promising greater returns . . . will depend on what you want to accomplish and the degree of risk you are willing to assume.

How much does all this service cost? Not one cent...whether you're thinking of buying 10 shares, 27, 50 or 100 shares.

What will my broker charge me if I do buy a stock? His commission, on the average, runs around one per cent of the purchase price. On very small orders ($100 or less) the commission may be six per cent; on larger orders it may be as small as one-fifth of one per cent.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENT DEATH TOLL

Independence comes high. Many Americans bought it with the price of their lives in the Revolution and many more have died since to preserve it. It is written into the Constitution and into the hearts of the American people.

Americans will never question the value of independence, but it is time for all of us to weigh the price we pay each year just to celebrate it.

Last year, when the Fourth of July provided a four-day week-end holiday for many persons, the accident death toll hit an all-time high of 793. Traffic accidents alone took 491 lives. Other miscellaneous accidents, such as drowning and fire, claimed 302.

The calendar will save lives this year, since the Fourth falls in mid-week, bringing only a one-day holiday for most persons. But even so this annual celebration of our national independence will bring tragedy and death to many Americans.

The traffic accident death toll already is up 10 per cent this year. Add to that the heavy travel and recreational activity of a holiday and the Fourth remains on the nation's danger day list.

With traffic accident deaths now numbering more than 971,000—and the millionth victim expected in December, according to the National Safety Council—it is time for Americans to apply voluntary controls to accidents.

Since the invention of the automobile, the number of Americans killed in traffic accidents is nearly twice the number of patriots killed in all the nation's wars.

The Constitution guarantees every man liberty and independence. In America no one questions anyone's right to go wherever he pleases to celebrate Independence Day, or any other holiday, but level-headed Americans are questioning the right of a minority to endanger the lives of the majority.

The police alone cannot curb accidents without the wholehearted support of the nation's motorists — the very people whose lives are at stake.

There is much talk today about preserving the American way of life. If we are to preserve American lives we must set up voluntary controls over carelessness.

LANGUAGE FLEXIBILITY

Languages are added to in many ways. Expressions are borrowed from other tongues to describe or label an experience, as in the case of the word blitzkreig, pilfered from the German, to describe a sudden and violent attack.

Soldiers, who express themselves in colorful and salty manner, frequently contribute lasting words to the language. An example of this is the now common use of the terms "ack-ack" and "GI," once used only by soldiers.

Our language is flexible, and in this rapidly changing world that is fortunate. If we think of the countless things which exist today but were not dreamed of fifty years ago, we realize how valuable is the addition of new words and expressions.

THE MUCH-SOUGHT DOLLAR

American ideas may not be popular in the Communist-dominated countries but American dollars are. Recent restrictions on East-West trade have already brought protest from some of the Iron Curtain countries, which need American dollars to buy goods in the capitalistic markets which they so loudly deplore.

The satellites are now the beneficiaries of what is called the Molotov Plan, which not only coordinates production in the satellite countries but also directs their trade. It is a comment on the relative merits of our system and that of the Russians that they must direct their best efforts to get a plentiful supply of our currency.

One of the methods by which they accomplish this is a trade policy of letting only countries which can get dollars in return export goods to other countries which have dollars to pay. Hungary, for example, lags in her trade commitments to Austria. Instead of sending Hungarian sugar to meet these commitments, Hungary sends the sugar to Czechoslovakia which has a favorable balance in her trade relations with Austria and can sell the sugar to Austria for dollars.

It has always been a Communist propaganda statement that the United States was a nation doomed to fail economically because of a "boom-or-bust" economy. Those who listen to Communist propaganda must wonder just why United States dollars are so desirable behind the Iron Curtain.

THE COST OF PESSIMISM

An optimist is a person who believes that if you live right and think straight and cut no corners, the results will be favorable.

A pessimist is a person who is sure that the world is going to the dogs anyhow and that a bit of lying, cheating, grafting and similar devices will not do any particular harm to an already incurable situation.

The late Harry Hopkins was a philosopher of pessimism, a sort of New Deal Schopenhauer. He assumed that the American people were so dumb that they would fall for any fallacy, if competently packaged. Harry Hopkins died and I have noted that only I, the incurable optimist, ever recall his name.

Franklin D. Roosevelt also was a pessimist and therefore gave away the game at Teheran and Yalta. An optimist holds his cards close to his waist-line in the hope that a pair of jacks, if properly concealed emotionally, might, in the long run, win a hand. And it sometimes does, particularly if the other players are pessimists.

Roosevelt threw his hand down when Stalin had nothing to show. At Teheran and Yalta, and later at Potsdam, where Harry Truman sat in, Stalin walked off with all the chips.

Some say that Stalin was bluffing then and is bluffing now. They say that all his threats and hot and cold wars are just bluffs. But it got him an 800,000,000 population and rich lands from the Elbe to the Pacific.

Actually, Stalin, like all Marxists, is an optimist in the sense that he believes that his success is inevitable and therefore he can afford to take big chances. The initial slogan of Marxism, "You have nothing to lose but your chains," is a wonderfully hopeful statement because if there is nothing to lose, everything is a gain. It is like when I go broke paying taxes, I still feel cheerful because I am not as poor as my father was either in monetary or non-monetary benefits. It is something to think about.

And that brings one to the Truman administration. Harry Truman is a pessimist and you can see it on his face, even when he laughs. He just cannot believe that he is actually President of the United States. All the time, he has to prove to himself that it really is true. He struts; he writes overpowering letters; he attacks Congress; he over-rides the joint chiefs of staff; he makes war without the consent of Congress. He has a wonderful time proving to himself that he is really and truly President of the United States!

That alone explains the curious episode of the firing of General MacArthur. You can read all the millions of words of testimony and there is not a plausible story as to why MacArthur was fired at the precise moment and in such a cruel manner. No matter how faithful servitors try to cover the master's whimsicalities, it was he who did the deed to assert that he was the boss. And nobody was telling him that he was not the boss!

Actually, nobody was questioning his legal and constitutional authority because no one could. The President may, in all his might, remove any general or admiral or cabinet officer, at will.

The MacArthur incident was one of many such exhibitions of fear. It is the fear of the dowager who does not belong. It is the fear of the parvenu who continues to eat peas with a knife. It is the fear of the foreman who marries the boss's daughter and expects the shop to rib him everlastingly.

The probability is that if left in his own milieu, Harry Truman would have remained an optimist, believing that a deal made over a poker table, assisted by properly aged bourbon, must produce favorable results if the players abide by Hoyle, more or less.

But in the curious play of historic events, Harry Truman finds forces at work which baffle him. That is why he announces regularly that he is a great student of history, the idea being that he knows what he is doing because it is in a book. Unfortunately, his conduct does not support the claim to knowledge. For instance, he does not seem to know the history of Manchuria or even Russia, from the way he acts.

This vaunted knowledge of history, in a statesman of Mr. Truman's position, is an overemphasis of the usual; that is, a President of the United States is expected to know some history.

HELPING BLOOD TO FLOW FASTER

One of the distressing sights in the in-patient and out-patient departments of our hospitals is the number of elderly men and women wearing bandages on their legs because of slow or nonhealing ulcers.

There was a tendency a few years ago to do away with these bandages as not being effective in quickening the flow of blood upward through the veins; in fact, some physicians and surgeons felt it "slowed up" the flow of blood toward the heart. Also, some physicians believed they obtained good results from substances injected into the blood vessels.

It is known, of course, that the veins in the legs have valves which, under normal conditions, prevent the blood flowing backward down the vein. Keeping these valves in mind many physicians today are again using bandages on the legs to help push blood back to the heart and to prevent it flowing back through the valves when they opened temporarily by the movement of the leg muscles.

To prove that the onward and upward flow of blood in deep veins can be accelerated, by compression of the veins by bandages, Drs. Joseph R. Stanton, Edward D. Fries, and Robert W. Wilkins (Boston) report their studies of 20 subjects in Journal of Clinical Investigation.

With the patient lying on his back on the x-ray table, the entire leg from instep to upper third of the thigh was encased in a series of loosely fitting blood pressure cuffs or leggings that could be inflated. A needle was inserted into lower end of a vein at the ankle and test substances were injected directly into the vein. After finding the time taken by the blood to reach a certain point, without the bandages being inflated, the bandages were then inflated and tests made. Without application of inflated bandages, time taken to reach the point as shown by a lead marker was 21.7 seconds as contrasted with an appearance time of 11.38 seconds during pressurization by the bandages or inflated leggings.

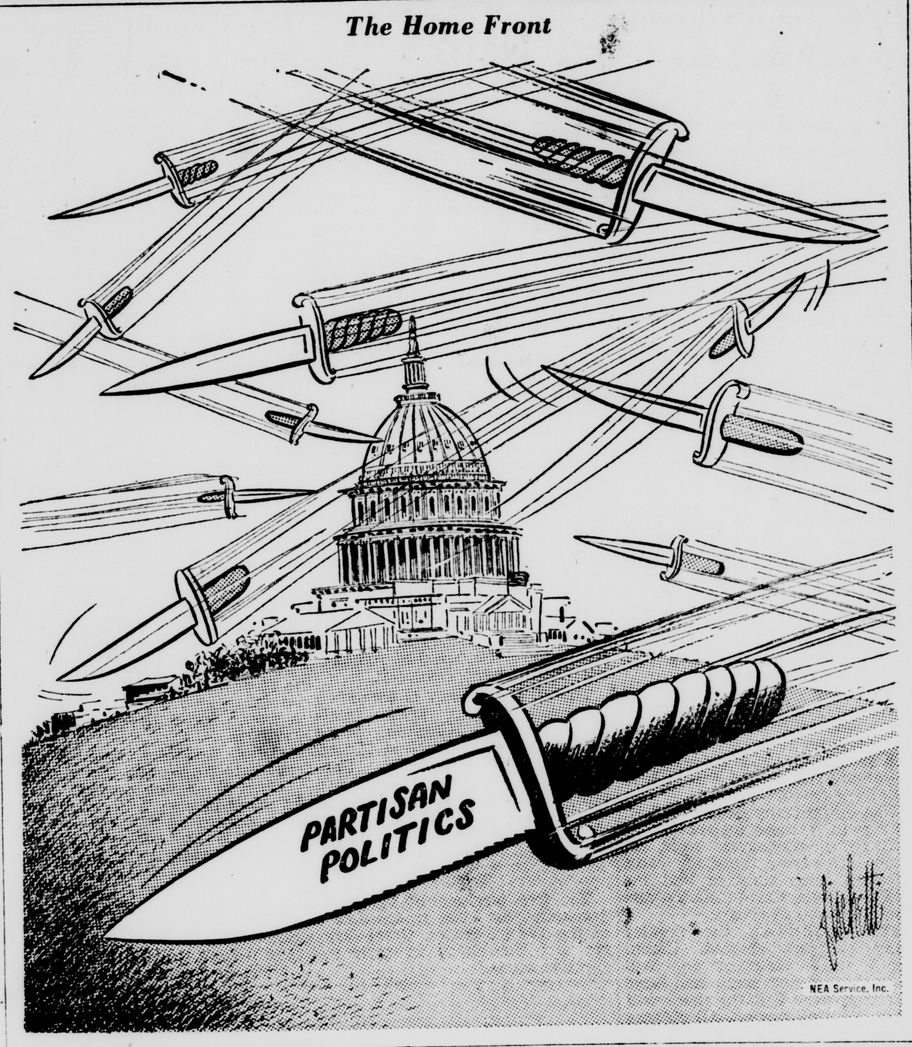

From these studies it appears that the old-fashioned method of bandaging up the legs to hasten the flow of blood from the veins in the legs toward the heart is good treatment.

The Home Front

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The most important Senate debate of the year as far as housewives were concerned was fought behind the closed doors of the banking and currency committee last week. No housewives were present when the solons debated price controls, but this column is able to report who was for and who was against the housewife.

Those who at first voted against the housewife on rolling back prices included two Democrats:

1. Chairman Burnet Maybank of South Carolina, whose family has long been in the cotton brokerage business and who has been especially opposed to price control on cotton. The so-called rollback on beef actually was a rollback on all farm goods, including cotton.

2. Joe Frear of Delaware, who owns three dairy and chicken farms, sells fertilizer, farm machinery, and is director of the Baltimore Trust Co., the Farmers Bank of Dover, Del., and the Camden, N. J., Fruit Growers National Bank.

Republicans voting against the housewife were Capehart of Indiana, Bricker of Ohio, Schoeppel of Kansas, Dirksen of Illinois and Ives of New York. Later Ives got swamped by protests from New York, and after dining with GOP Congressman Jack Javits, Republican candidate for mayor of New York, Ives switched his vote and led a drive to protect the housewife.

The original senators voting for the housewife were:

Sparkman of Alabama, Douglas of Illinois, Benton of Connecticut, Moody of Michigan, Fulbright of Arkansas and Robertson of Virginia, all Democrats. Later, however, Robertson switched his vote against the housewife.

Housewives' Chief Enemy

Most effective battler against the housewife was the able new Republican senator from Illinois, Everett Dirksen. Dirksen, a Chicago Tribune spokesman and an old friend of Morton Bodfish, a leading brain of the real estate lobby, led a move behind closed doors to wipe out price controls altogether. He was joined by Capehart, Bricker and Schoeppel in an attempt to strike out title four, which would have eliminated both wage and price controls.

Dirksen also tried to slip through the 61 per cent rent increase that Ohio's Bricker failed to foist on the committee in an earlier vote. Bricker had wanted to let the landlords chose any year since 1942 and increase their rents 61 per cent above their top figure—despite the fact that he had objected when the Mayflower Hotel raised his rent only 15 per cent. He was talked down behind closed doors and finally offered a 37 per cent compromise.

Yet Dirksen later came back with a proposal to strike out all rent controls, but give the President authority to recontrol rents in defense areas. What the committee almost missed, however, was that Dirksen offered the Bricker 61 per cent formula for recontrolling rents even in defense areas—interesting news to Chicago's over-crowded tenants.

Another camouflaged maneuver was tried by Capehart after Dirksen lost the vote to strike out wage and price controls altogether. Capehart then moved to extend allocation controls for a year, but let price controls expire December 1. This was an obvious attempt to kill price controls in December at a time when Congress would not be in session and would be unable to renew them.

Irony is that this is the same Capehart who kept shouting that Truman was responsible for inflation because he didn't slap on controls last June, immediately after the Korean outbreak.

Backstage Lobbying

During the early committee debates, Robertson of Virginia was one of the stanchest champions of the housewife. He not only presided over the Banking Committee for one day in Maybank's absence, but held the proxy of Arkansas' Fulbright, during which time he argued that the country needed some kind of price control.

Later Robertson suddenly reversed himself and it was reported that his Virginia colleague, Harry Byrd, had been proselytizing him. If Robertson had not switched his vote, the housewives would have won.

To offset his switch, Congressman Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., at the suggestion of the White House, telephoned Senator Frear and urged him to vote with the consumers. Young Roosevelt's impassioned plea made an impression on the Delaware farmer-senator—though not quite enough.

On the final showdown vote on rollbacks, Frear passed. Apparently he wanted to go part way to please Roosevelt. So he just didn't vote. This left the vote a tie, 6 to 6, and Frear was called upon to cast the deciding vote.

At first the Delaware Democrat seemed a little unsure what he should do. First he asked what an "aye" vote would mean. Then he asked what a "no" vote would mean. Then he asked how he had previously voted. When told he had voted against price rollbacks, he cast his vote the same way again.

This lost the battle for the housewives.

Note—Most ironic thing about the almost solid Republican vote against rollbacks was that last summer they applauded loudest when Bernard Baruch urged price controls. Baruch's speech came before the President was ready to ask for price controls, and knowing that the two men didn't like each other, the GOP'ers whooped and hollered for the same measures they voted against last week.

The Housewife's Friends

During the backstage debate, South Carolina's Maybank argued: "We ought to freeze prices the way they are now so business and agriculture will know what they are up against and will go ahead and produce."

Alabama's Sparkman and Michigan's new Senator Moody led the fight for the consumers. The Alabaman warned that the government will not be able to hold the line on wages, if prices are not rolled back. The whole wage stabilization formula, he said, is related to the movement of prices and the cost of living in the base period before the Korean invasion.

"What you are doing here is to wipe out the base," Sparkman warned.

Moody maintained: "The economy is full of distortion because, when the President attempted to apply the voluntary system and hold inflation without direct controls, a great many people responded in the public interest, and a lot of others profiteered.

"What you are doing now is to put Congress' official stamp of approval on the profiteers. Simultaneously you are telling the patriotic people who responded to the plea of their government and did hold down prices, that they can't count on being protected," Moody told Dirksen, Capehart and company.

New Provision Is Slap at President From Members of Congress Over General's Letter

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 26—Congress has slapped back at President Truman for his attitude of resentment over the letter written by Gen. MacArthur to Representative Martin of Massachusetts, Republican leader.

In a single paragraph, amid voluminous words on the subject of manpower, the law of the land today—as passed by both Houses and now signed by President Truman—says that members of the armed services are protected if they express themselves freely to members of Congress. Here is the wording of the new provision of law:

"No member of the armed forces shall be restricted or prevented from communicating directly or indirectly with any member or members of Congress concerning any subject unless such communication is in violation of law or in violation of regulations necessary to the security and safety of the United States."

Mr. Truman could not have vetoed this provision alone as he was faced with the choice between approval and disapproval of the manpower bill containing the all-important sections on the draft and universal military training.

The language is broad enough to cover any incident in which information of value to the enemy might be disclosed but the burden of proof in any dismissal would be on the official to prove that a regulation had been violated which was "necessary to the security and safety of the United States."

It would be possible, of course, for the Defense Department to require that all statements should be "cleared" first with the department merely as a matter of mechanics. But the new law makes it unlawful for the top command not to clear any statement if directed to a member of Congress unless it contains information directly affecting the "security and safety of the United States."

Thus Admiral Denfeld, who was removed as chief of naval operations in October 1949 after testifying before Congress, did not discuss any measures directly relating to safety or security but broad questions of future policy.

The Defense Department has said to Congress that General MacArthur's letter to Rep. Martin should have been cleared first with headquarters because on December 6th an order had been issued requiring that all statements of a public nature must be cleared with the top command in Washington.

What Congress has done now is to make it possible once more for any member of the armed forces to write to members of Congress on any subject unless that subject can be proved to be in violation of regulations, and then only if the regulations are necessary to security.

Senator McCarran, Democrat of Nevada, is not satisfied with the federal laws on the matter of reprisals taken against witnesses of all kinds before congressional committees. He has reported favorably from the Senate Judiciary Committee an amendment to the federal code which would provide:

"Whoever being an officer of the United States or of any department or agency thereof causes or attempts to cause a witness, who is a member of the armed forces of the United States or an officer or employe of the United States or of any department or agency thereof, to be demoted, dismissed, retired, or otherwise disciplined on account of his attending or having attended, by request of either House or committee thereof, any inquiry or investigation being had by either House, or any committee of either House, or any joint committee of the Congress, or on account of his testifying or having testified to any matter pending therein, or on account of his testimony on any matter pending therein, unless such testimony discloses misfeasance, malfeasance, dereliction of duty, or past reprehensible conduct on the part of such witness, shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

"The demotion, dismissal, or retirement (other than voluntary or for physical disability) of such witness within one year after so attending or testifying in such inquiry or investigation, . . . shall be considered a rebuttable presumption that such witness was demoted, dismissed, or retired because of such attendance or such testimony."

Congress is beginning to assert its right as a coordinate civilian branch of the government charged under the Constitution with providing measures of defense and for the regulation of the armed services. Unless the legislative body can be assured of a free flow of information from all citizens, including those in the armed services, it cannot perform its constitutional functions. That's the reason for these proposals, which probably never would have arisen if it were not for the dismissal of Admiral Denfeld and Gen. MacArthur for communicating with members of Congress at the direct request of the latter for information on military affairs.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

There are many memoirs of men who boasted of their part in helping Russia build up the power which now enables her to attack the United States. This crime is an important lesson in recent history which has been either ignored, glossed over or "justified" on the false ground that Russia's casualties were suffered in our cause.

It must be remembered, however, that up to June, 1941, six months before Pearl Harbor, all the Communists in the Roosevelt administration and in the nation at large were belligerent partisans of Stalin and Hitler. They sabotaged our own preparations for war and picketed the White House, with placards calling Roosevelt a war-monger. Much of the CIO was on the Stalin-Hitler side at that time. Joe Curran, the boss of the national maritime union, who now purports to be anti-Communist, wrote that the war was an imperialistic aggression down to the hour when Hitler double-crossed Stalin. Then by that act of a bad man, it was purified and became a people's war against despotic tyranny.

There was a long strike at Allis-Chalmers, Milwaukee, which was producing machinery for our own war production. This strike was organized and managed by the Communist party. There were scattered jugular strikes in other vital centers. Harry Bridges controlled all loading and thus all shipping on the west coast under the patronage of the CIO and the Roosevelt administration. Philip Murray had for his general counsel a Communist, Lee Pressman, and was himself engaged in the Communist fight to revoke the order for the deportation of Bridges as an enemy of our government.

Notwithstanding proof of treachery which any 'teen-age boy or girl of normal intelligence could see, the Roosevelt government instantly sprang to Stalin's aid to save him from his two great enemies, Germany and Japan. Our country not only knocked off Japan singlehanded but interposed in the difference between defeat and victory in Stalin's war with Hitler. But for us Russia would have been conquered.

Generals, rich dilettants drawn to Washington to atone for their sin of being wealthy and well-born, and dull, ignoble politicians from our commonality, pretended to believe that Stalin would be grateful and reasonable after we had saved his evil machine from Hitler's machine which was no less evil, but certainly no more. In some fields of human effort a man entrusted with power and decision is subject to penalties, even unto death, for stupid failure. We are assuming here that the terrible failure of the Roosevelt administration was due to honest stupidity but, as I suggested, that assumption is hard to justify because the evidence sug-

TRAFFIC ACCIDENT DEATH TOLL

Independence comes high. Many Americans bought it with the price of their lives in the Revolution and many more have died since to preserve it. It is written into the Constitution and into the hearts of the American people.

Americans will never question the value of independence, but it is time for all of us to weigh the price we pay each year just to celebrate it.

Last year, when the Fourth of July provided a four-day week-end holiday for many persons, the accident death toll hit an all-time high of 793. Traffic accidents alone took 491 lives. Other miscellaneous accidents, such as drowning and fire, claimed 302.

The calendar will save lives this year, since the Fourth falls in mid-week, bringing only a one-day holiday for most persons. But even so this annual celebration of our national independence will bring tragedy and death to many Americans.

The traffic accident death toll already is up 10 per cent this year. Add to that the heavy travel and recreational activity of a holiday and the Fourth remains on the nation's danger day list.

With traffic accident deaths now numbering more than 971,000—and the millionth victim expected in December, according to the National Safety Council—it is time for Americans to apply voluntary controls to accidents.

Since the invention of the automobile, the number of Americans killed in traffic accidents is nearly twice the number of patriots killed in all the nation's wars.

The Constitution guarantees every man liberty and independence. In America no one questions anyone's right to go wherever he pleases to celebrate Independence Day, or any other holiday, but level-headed Americans are questioning the right of a minority to endanger the lives of the majority.

The police alone cannot curb accidents without the wholehearted support of the nation's motorists — the very people whose lives are at stake.

There is much talk today about preserving the American way of life. If we are to preserve American lives we must set up voluntary controls over carelessness.

LANGUAGE FLEXIBILITY

Languages are added to in many ways. Expressions are borrowed from other tongues to describe or label an experience, as in the case of the word blitzkreig, pilfered from the German, to describe a sudden and violent attack.

Soldiers, who express themselves in colorful and salty manner, frequently contribute lasting words to the language. An example of this is the now common use of the terms "ack-ack" and "GI," once used only by soldiers.

Our language is flexible, and in this rapidly changing world that is fortunate. If we think of the countless things which exist today but were not dreamed of fifty years ago, we realize how valuable is the addition of new words and expressions.

THE MUCH-SOUGHT DOLLAR

American ideas may not be popular in the Communist-dominated countries but American dollars are. Recent restrictions on East-West trade have already brought protest from some of the Iron Curtain countries, which need American dollars to buy goods in the capitalistic markets which they so loudly deplore.

The satellites are now the beneficiaries of what is called the Molotov Plan, which not only coordinates production in the satellite countries but also directs their trade. It is a comment on the relative merits of our system and that of the Russians that they must direct their best efforts to get a plentiful supply of our currency.

One of the methods by which they accomplish this is a trade policy of letting only countries which can get dollars in return export goods to other countries which have dollars to pay. Hungary, for example, lags in her trade commitments to Austria. Instead of sending Hungarian sugar to meet these commitments, Hungary sends the sugar to Czechoslovakia which has a favorable balance in her trade relations with Austria and can sell the sugar to Austria for dollars.

It has always been a Communist propaganda statement that the United States was a nation doomed to fail economically because of a "boom-or-bust" economy. Those who listen to Communist propaganda must wonder just why United States dollars are so desirable behind the Iron Curtain.

A needle was inserted into lower end of a vein at the ankle and test substances were injected directly into the vein. After finding the time taken by the blood to reach a certain point, without the bandages being inflated, the bandages were then inflated and tests made. Without application of inflated bandages, time taken to reach the point as shown by a lead marker was 21.7 seconds as contrasted with an appearance time of 11.38 seconds during pressurization by the bandages or inflated leggings.

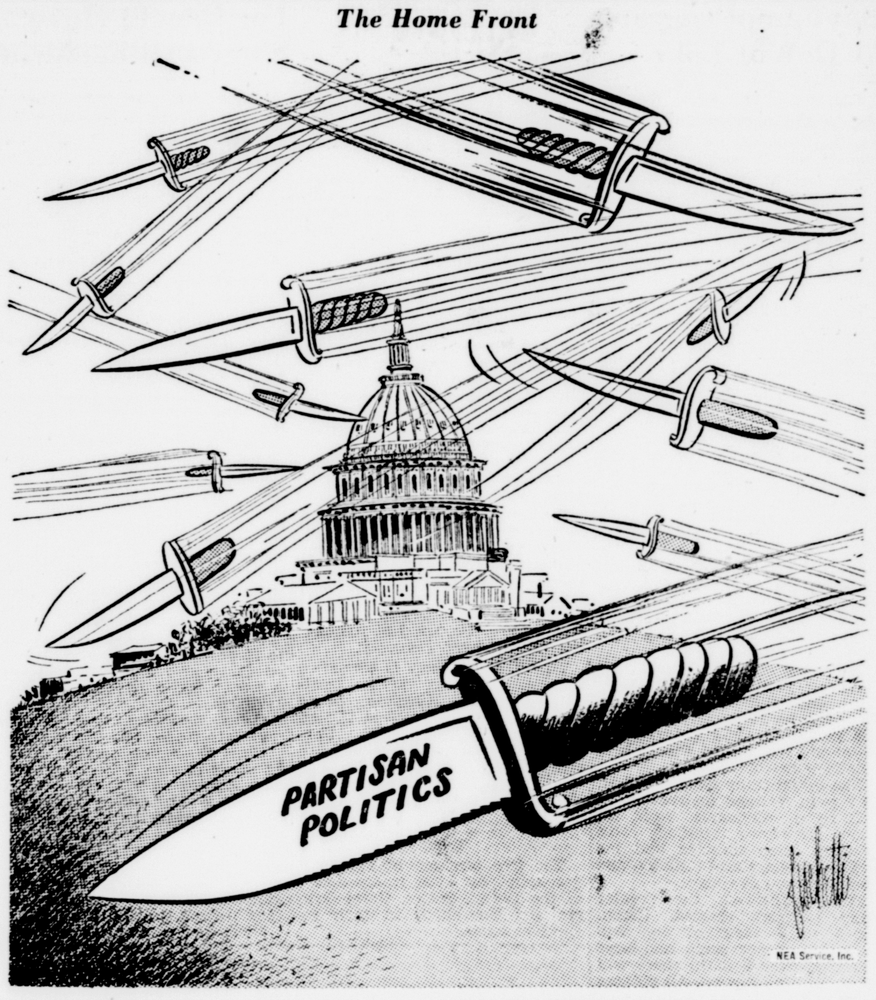

From these studies it appears that the old-fashioned method of bandaging up the legs to hasten the flow of blood from the veins in the legs toward the heart is good treatment.

The Home Front

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The most important Senate debate of the year as far as housewives were concerned was fought behind the closed doors of the banking and currency committee last week. No housewives were present when the solons debated price controls, but this column is able to report who was for and who was against the housewife.

Those who at first voted against the housewife on rolling back prices included two Democrats:

1. Chairman Burnet Maybank of South Carolina, whose family has long been in the cotton brokerage business and who has been especially opposed to price control on cotton. The so-called rollback on beef actually was a rollback on all farm goods, including cotton.

2. Joe Frear of Delaware, who owns three dairy and chicken farms, sells fertilizer, farm machinery, and is director of the Baltimore Trust Co., the Farmers Bank of Dover, Del., and the Camden, N. J., Fruit Growers National Bank.

Republicans voting against the housewife were Capehart of Indiana, Bricker of Ohio, Schoeppel of Kansas, Dirksen of Illinois and Ives of New York. Later Ives got swamped by protests from New York, and after dining with GOP Congressman Jack Javits, Republican candidate for mayor of New York, Ives switched his vote and led a drive to protect the housewife.

The original senators voting for the housewife were:

Sparkman of Alabama, Douglas of Illinois, Benton of Connecticut, Moody of Michigan, Fulbright of Arkansas and Robertson of Virginia, all Democrats. Later, however, Robertson switched his vote against the housewife.

Housewives' Chief Enemy

Most effective battler against the housewife was the able new Republican senator from Illinois, Everett Dirksen. Dirksen, a Chicago Tribune spokesman and an old friend of Morton Bodfish, a leading brain of the real estate lobby, led a move behind closed doors to wipe out price controls altogether. He was joined by Capehart, Bricker and Schoeppel in an attempt to strike out title four, which would have eliminated both wage and price controls.

Dirksen also tried to slip through the 61 per cent rent increase that Ohio's Bricker failed to foist on the committee in an earlier vote. Bricker had wanted to let the landlords chose any year since 1942 and increase their rents 61 per cent above their top figure—despite the fact that he had objected when the Mayflower Hotel raised his rent only 15 per cent. He was talked down behind closed doors and finally offered a 37 per cent compromise.

Yet Dirksen later came back with a proposal to strike out all rent controls, but give the President authority to recontrol rents in defense areas. What the committee almost missed, however, was that Dirksen offered the Bricker 61 per cent formula for recontrolling rents even in defense areas—interesting news to Chicago's over-crowded tenants.

Another camouflaged maneuver was tried by Capehart after Dirksen lost the vote to strike out wage and price controls altogether. Capehart then moved to extend allocation controls for a year, but let price controls expire December 1. This was an obvious attempt to kill price controls in December at a time when Congress would not be in session and would be unable to renew them.

Irony is that this is the same Capehart who kept shouting that Truman was responsible for inflation because he didn't slap on controls last June, immediately after the Korean outbreak.

Backstage Lobbying

During the early committee debates, Robertson of Virginia was one of the stanchest champions of the housewife. He not only presided over the Banking Committee for one day in Maybank's absence, but held the proxy of Arkansas' Fulbright, during which time he argued that the country needed some kind of price control.

Later Robertson suddenly reversed himself and it was reported that his Virginia colleague, Harry Byrd, had been proselytizing him. If Robertson had not switched his vote, the housewives would have won.

To offset his switch, Congressman Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., at the suggestion of the White House, telephoned Senator Frear and urged him to vote with the consumers. Young Roosevelt's impassioned plea made an impression on the Delaware farmer-senator—though not quite enough.

On the final showdown vote on rollbacks, Frear passed. Apparently he wanted to go part way to please Roosevelt. So he just didn't vote. This left the vote a tie, 6 to 6, and Frear was called upon to cast the deciding vote.

At first the Delaware Democrat seemed a little unsure what he should do. First he asked what an "aye" vote would mean. Then he asked what a "no" vote would mean. Then he asked how he had previously voted. When told he had voted against price rollbacks, he cast his vote the same way again.

This lost the battle for the housewives.

Note—Most ironic thing about the almost solid Republican vote against rollbacks was that last summer they applauded loudest when Bernard Baruch urged price controls. Baruch's speech came before the President was ready to ask for price controls, and knowing that the two men didn't like each other, the GOP'ers whooped and hollered for the same measures they voted against last week.

The Housewife's Friends

During the backstage debate, South Carolina's Maybank argued: "We ought to freeze prices the way they are now so business and agriculture will know what they are up against and will go ahead and produce."

Alabama's Sparkman and Michigan's new Senator Moody led the fight for the consumers. The Alabaman warned that the government will not be able to hold the line on wages, if prices are not rolled back. The whole wage stabilization formula, he said, is related to the movement of prices and the cost of living in the base period before the Korean invasion.

"What you are doing here is to wipe out the base," Sparkman warned.

Moody maintained: "The economy is full of distortion because, when the President attempted to apply the voluntary system and hold inflation without direct controls, a great many people responded in the public interest, and a lot of others profiteered.

"What you are doing now is to put Congress' official stamp of approval on the profiteers. Simultaneously you are telling the patriotic people who responded to the plea of their government and did hold down prices, that they can't count on being protected," Moody told Dirksen, Capehart and company.

New Provision Is Slap at President From Members of Congress Over General's Letter

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 26—Congress has slapped back at President Truman for his attitude of resentment over the letter written by Gen. MacArthur to Representative Martin of Massachusetts, Republican leader.

In a single paragraph, amid voluminous words on the subject of manpower, the law of the land today—as passed by both Houses and now signed by President Truman—says that members of the armed services are protected if they express themselves freely to members of Congress. Here is the wording of the new provision of law:

"No member of the armed forces shall be restricted or prevented from communicating directly or indirectly with any member or members of Congress concerning any subject unless such communication is in violation of law or in violation of regulations necessary to the security and safety of the United States."

Mr. Truman could not have vetoed this provision alone as he was faced with the choice between approval and disapproval of the manpower bill containing the all-important sections on the draft and universal military training.

The language is broad enough to cover any incident in which information of value to the enemy might be disclosed but the burden of proof in any dismissal would be on the official to prove that a regulation had been violated which was "necessary to the security and safety of the United States."

It would be possible, of course, for the Defense Department to require that all statements should be "cleared" first with the department merely as a matter of mechanics. But the new law makes it unlawful for the top command not to clear any statement if directed to a member of Congress unless it contains information directly affecting the "security and safety of the United States."

Thus Admiral Denfeld, who was removed as chief of naval operations in October 1949 after testifying before Congress, did not discuss any measures directly relating to safety or security but broad questions of future policy.

The Defense Department has said to Congress that General MacArthur's letter to Rep. Martin should have been cleared first with headquarters because on December 6th an order had been issued requiring that all statements of a public nature must be cleared with the top command in Washington.

What Congress has done now is to make it possible once more for any member of the armed forces to write to members of Congress on any subject unless that subject can be proved to be in violation of regulations, and then only if the regulations are necessary to security.

Senator McCarran, Democrat of Nevada, is not satisfied with the federal laws on the matter of reprisals taken against witnesses of all kinds before congressional committees. He has reported favorably from the Senate Judiciary Committee an amendment to the federal code which would provide:

"Whoever being an officer of the United States or of any department or agency thereof causes or attempts to cause a witness, who is a member of the armed forces of the United States or an officer or employe of the United States or of any department or agency thereof, to be demoted, dismissed, retired, or otherwise disciplined on account of his attending or having attended, by request of either House or committee thereof, any inquiry or investigation being had by either House, or any committee of either House, or any joint committee of the Congress, or on account of his testifying or having testified to any matter pending therein, or on account of his testimony on any matter pending therein, unless such testimony discloses misfeasance, malfeasance, dereliction of duty, or past reprehensible conduct on the part of such witness, shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

"The demotion, dismissal, or retirement (other than voluntary or for physical disability) of such witness within one year after so attending or testifying in such inquiry or investigation, . . . shall be considered a rebuttable presumption that such witness was demoted, dismissed, or retired because of such attendance or such testimony."

Congress is beginning to assert its right as a coordinate civilian branch of the government charged under the Constitution with providing measures of defense and for the regulation of the armed services. Unless the legislative body can be assured of a free flow of information from all citizens, including those in the armed services, it cannot perform its constitutional functions. That's the reason for these proposals, which probably never would have arisen if it were not for the dismissal of Admiral Denfeld and Gen. MacArthur for communicating with members of Congress at the direct request of the latter for information on military affairs.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

There are many memoirs of men who boasted of their part in helping Russia build up the power which now enables her to attack the United States. This crime is an important lesson in recent history which has been either ignored, glossed over or "justified" on the false ground that Russia's casualties were suffered in our cause.

It must be remembered, however, that up to June, 1941, six months before Pearl Harbor, all the Communists in the Roosevelt administration and in the nation at large were belligerent partisans of Stalin and Hitler. They sabotaged our own preparations for war and picketed the White House, with placards calling Roosevelt a war-monger. Much of the CIO was on the Stalin-Hitler side at that time. Joe Curran, the boss of the national maritime union, who now purports to be anti-Communist, wrote that the war was an imperialistic aggression down to the hour when Hitler double-crossed Stalin. Then by that act of a bad man, it was purified and became a people's war against despotic tyranny.

There was a long strike at Allis-Chalmers, Milwaukee, which was producing machinery for our own war production. This strike was organized and managed by the Communist party. There were scattered jugular strikes in other vital centers. Harry Bridges controlled all loading and thus all shipping on the west coast under the patronage of the CIO and the Roosevelt administration. Philip Murray had for his general counsel a Communist, Lee Pressman, and was himself engaged in the Communist fight to revoke the order for the deportation of Bridges as an enemy of our government.

Notwithstanding proof of treachery which any teen-age boy or girl of normal intelligence could see, the Roosevelt government instantly sprang to Stalin's aid to save him from his two great enemies, Germany and Japan. Our country not only knocked off Japan singlehanded but interposed in the difference between defeat and victory in Stalin's war with Hitler. But for us Russia would have been conquered.

Generals, rich dilettants drawn to Washington to atone for their sin of being wealthy and well-born, and dull, ignoble politicians from our commonality, pretended to believe that Stalin would be grateful and reasonable after we had saved his evil machine from Hitler's machine which was no less evil, but certainly no more. In some fields of human effort a man entrusted with power and decision is subject to penalties, even unto death, for stupid failure. We are assuming here that the terrible failure of the Roosevelt administration was due to honest stupidity but, as I suggested, that assumption is hard to justify because the evidence suggests guilt in some cases and failure to cry out in others.

We must not forget that within a few weeks after he had called off his traitors in the United States, Stalin was bawling out meek fools, sent to the Kremlin by Roosevelt, because we were not as lavish as he demanded that we should be in our promises of help under lend-lease. This creature, who may yet cause the actual, physical death of the United States of America, had the effrontery to abuse our servile, cap-touching messengers and Winston Churchill, himself, for our inability to meet his snarling demands.

And not one of our gallant generals or amateur statesmen; who had been drawn into Roosevelt's network, had the method to talk back in his own tones and remind him that the reason why we were short of stuff was that so little time ago his Communist saboteurs were executing his orders to impede production.

Edward R. Stettinius, who seems to have had a sense of inferiority, in his biography—all these ninnies wrote books, thank God—said that we could not "evaluate" our relations with our Soviet "allies" by comparing them with our relations with other countries. We could only "evaluate" them "in terms of the distance traveled since Germany attacked Russia." Viewed in those terms, this poor fool said, we had "come a long way in a very short time." He was stupid enough to write that "we have both seen how closely our national interests are linked together."

"The longer we work together, the better we understand each other," he said. Am I abusive in caling this man a fool? I think that with the Korean casualties in mind and the ominous hue of the future visible to the eye, one might be pardoned the use of harder language.

He writes with stupid pride of our dumping "steel, copper, and telephone wire" on this enemy who made no effort to conceal his hatred beyond the routine drunken orgies with which he mocked our gullibility after each concession by our agents.

In the summer of 1942, when we were still reeling from Pearl Harbor, Roosevelt wrote, "we can let the Russians have almost anything they want." All Stalin had to do was give us the order of priority. We would fill his orders in that order.

Stettinius mentioned, with pride, the tire factory with a capacity of a million tires a year which was to have used Russia's own rubber and save some of the drain on our supplies, but never produced a tire during the war. He spoke of "electric generating equiment for Soviet war factories" beyond the Urals and in the scorched-earth industrial regions, and of railroad cars which were "complete diesel generating plants." We sent 9,000 tons of seeds to pioneer new agricultural regions in Siberia and replant the devasted fields of western Russia. This item recalls to mind the horrible Russian famine caused by Lenin's decision to seize the grain for future planting. It was a practical problem, solved in that "hard-headed" Russian way which many Americans admire. There was plenty of human seed to replace the people dead of starvation. But grain used to save them from starvation could never reproduce itself. Therefore grain was preferable to people.

And still we praise the authors of the folly and quibble whether MacArthur is to blame for our fate because he left his flanks exposed. Smear MacArthur, ridicule and vilify the great man who won the Pacific war and brought Japan to our side. But blessed be the holy name of Roosevelt.

$500,000 in Goods Stolen From Wards

New York, June 26 (AP)—Goods worth $500,000 have been stolen from the Montgomery Ward and Co. mail order house here in the last 30 months, police disclosed today.

Authorities said they were questioning two of the firm's truck drivers and a housewife. None had been charged.

Charles Lazar, Montgomery Ward's eastern division traffic manager, said Montgomery Ward and insurance company detectives had been investigating the thefts for at least a year.

New York city detectives, disguised as street cleaners and truck drivers, have been watching suspects for the past four weeks.

Police said one of the truck drivers, William Dorsey, 28, of 1984 Crotona avenue, the Bronx, made an admission of complicity.

The other driver, Joseph Vanuska, 54, of Manhattan, was described by police as the "brains" behind the operation.

Woman Is Questioned

After questioning the two men late yesterday, police said, Mrs. Sandy DeSisto, 37, of 170 East 180th street the Bronx, also was taken into custody. Officials said she bought clothes from Dorsey and resold them to her neighbors.

Mrs. DeSisto insisted she did not know where Dorsey obtained the merchandise and that she thought him a manufacturer, police said.

Detectives said the two men took the merchandise off Montgomery Ward trucks after altering loading-platform slips. The thefts were not noticed until customers were billed four to six weeks after shipment, police added.

Dorsey and Vanuska had been brought under police scrutiny, authorities said, as the result of information given by four men arrested last month on assault and robbery charges. The quartet had dealt with the two drivers, police said.

Police reported that there were additional suspects in the case.

We could only "evaluate" them "in terms of the distance traveled since Germany attacked Russia." Viewed in those terms, this poor tool said, we had "come a long way in a very short time." He was stupid enough to write that "we have both seen how closely our national interests are linked together."

"The longer we work together, the better we understand each other," he said. Am I abusive in caling this man a fool? I think that with the Korean casualties in mind and the ominous hue of the future visible to the eye, one might be pardoned the use of harder language.

He writes with stupid pride of our dumping "steel, copper, and telephone wire" on this enemy who made no effort to conceal his hatred beyond the routine drunken orgies with which he mocked our gullibility after each concession by our agents.

In the summer of 1942, when we were still reeling from Pearl Harbor, Roosevelt wrote, "we can let the Russians have almost anything they want." All Stalin had to do was give us the order of priority. We would fill his orders in that order.

Stettinius mentioned, with pride, the tire factory with a capacity of a million tires a year which was to have used Russia's own rubber and save some of the drain on our supplies, but never produced a tire during the war. He spoke of "electric generating equiment for Soviet war factories" beyond the Urals and in the scorched-earth industrial regions, and of railroad cars which were "complete diesel generating plants." We sent 9,000 tons of seeds to pioneer new agricultural regions in Siberia and replant the devasted fields of western Russia. This item recalls to mind the horrible Russian famine caused by Lenin's decision to seize the grain for future planting. It was a practical problem, solved in that "hard-headed" Russian way which many Americans admire. There was plenty of human seed to replace the people dead of starvation. But grain used to save them from starvation could never reproduce itself. Therefore grain was preferable to people.

And still we praise the authors of the folly and quibble whether MacArthur is to blame for our fate because he left his flanks exposed. Smear MacArthur, ridicule and vilify the great man who won the Pacific war and brought Japan to our side. But blessed be the holy name of Roosevelt.

$500,000 in Goods Stolen From Wards

New York, June 26 (AP)—Goods worth $500,000 have been stolen from the Montgomery Ward and Co. mail order house here in the last 30 months, police disclosed today.

Authorities said they were questioning two of the firm's truck drivers and a housewife. None had been charged.

Charles Lazar, Montgomery Ward's eastern division traffic manager, said Montgomery Ward and insurance company detectives had been investigating the thefts for at least a year.

New York city detectives, disguised as street cleaners and truck drivers, have been watching suspects for the past four weeks.

Police said one of the truck drivers, William Dorsey, 28, of 1984 Crotona avenue, the Bronx, made an admission of complicity.

The other driver, Joseph Vanuska, 54, of Manhattan, was described by police as the "brains" behind the operation.

Woman Is Questioned

After questioning the two men late yesterday, police said, Mrs. Sandy DeSisto, 37, of 170 East 180th street the Bronx, also was taken into custody. Officials said she bought clothes from Dorsey and resold them to her neighbors.

Mrs. DeSisto insisted she did not know where Dorsey obtained the merchandise and that she thought him a manufacturer, police said.

Detectives said the two men took the merchandise off Montgomery Ward trucks after altering loading-platform slips. The thefts were not noticed until customers were billed four to six weeks after shipment, police added.

Dorsey and Vanuska had been brought under police scrutiny, authorities said, as the result of information given by four men arrested last month on assault and robbery charges. The quartet had dealt with the two drivers, police said.

Police reported that there were additional suspects in the case.

Destiny is not a matter of chance, it is a matter of choice; it is not a thing to be waited for, but to be achieved.

This Is Success

The man is a success who has lived well, laughed often, and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who leaves the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem, or a rescued soul; who never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it; who looked for the best in others and gave the best he had. His memory is a benediction.

Baseball affords lesson in impact of rising costs and taxes. While Ted Williams, of the Boston Red Sox, gets $125,000 against Babe Ruth's top of $80,000 in '31, Ted's net after taxes is $62,028; Babe's net was $68,535. Also, because of rising prices over past 20 years, Ted would now have to be paid $327,451 to equal Ruth's '31 buying power.—Foundation for Economic Education.

If you were naming the best players in the country you'd have to include Alvin Landy on your list. Strangely enough, Landy is so busy directing tournaments that he practically never gets a chance to play the game.

He found a chance to play, however, on a recent trip to the nation's capital, where he had gone to arrange the national tournament, scheduled there for August. One of the hands he played in Washington is shown today.

Landy refused the first heart trick, thus forcing West to abandon the suit. If West leads a second heart, declarer has two tricks in the suit instead of only one. If South takes the first heart, he dares not lose a trick to East, for then a heart return will ruin him.

West shifted to the eight of diamonds, and Landy made his second fine play by putting up the ace promptly. A finesse allows East to win and return a heart. Then the hearts become established while West still has the king of clubs as an entry.

After taking the second trick with dummy's ace of diamonds, Landy led the jack of clubs for a finesse. West took the king and led his remaining diamond to East's king. East then returned a heart, but the party was over. Landy could take the ace of hearts and run the rest of the tricks, making his contract with an overtrick.

Incidentally, Landy says that this year's national tournament will be bigger and better than ever. If brillant remarks and heated debates are heard in Washington during the first week of August, both political parties can relax. It will just be part of the annual bridge battle for the national championship.

If you were naming the best players in the country you'd have to include Alvin Landy on your list. Strangely enough, Landy is so busy directing tournaments that he practically never gets a chance to play the game.

He found a chance to play, however, on a recent trip to the nation's capital, where he had gone to arrange the national tournament, scheduled there for August. One of the hands he played in Washington is shown today.

Landy refused the first heart trick, thus forcing West to abandon the suit. If West leads a second heart, declarer has two tricks in the suit instead of only one. If South takes the first heart, he dares not lose a trick to East, for then a heart return will ruin him.

West shifted to the eight of diamonds, and Landy made his second fine play by putting up the ace promptly. A finesse allows East to win and return a heart. Then the hearts become established while West still has the king of clubs as an entry.

After taking the second trick with dummy's ace of diamonds, Landy led the jack of clubs for a finesse. West took the king and led his remaining diamond to East's king. East then returned a heart, but the party was over. Landy could take the ace of hearts and run the rest of the tricks, making his contract with an overtrick.

Incidentally, Landy says that this year's national tournament will be bigger and better than ever. If brillant remarks and heated debates are heard in Washington during the first week of August, both political parties can relax. It will just be part of the annual bridge battle for the national championship.

Footlighters Hard At Work on 'Claudia' Set for Thursday

The thermometer may crawl up to the boiling point this week, but for the Footlighters, hard at work on the set of "Claudia," weather is only a minor matter.

Under the co-chairmanship of Ray Smith and Tom Cerwonka, both of Kingston, a collection of "flats" in odd shapes and sizes, in good, middling, and bad repair, have evolved into the living room of the Naughton's Connecticut home. Betti Williams, Adeline DeCicco, and Bernice Pfieffer have been shopping for what seems to the young thespians an endless time for the just right piece of period furniture, furniture Claudia's architect husband would have selected for his home.

Right down the line Footlighters have been working, and working hard. Others in the back-stage picture are Valdo Viglielmo, stage manager; Alfred Flowers and Ernest Grafe, business; Ruth Fredericks, programs; John Berinato, James Roe, Frank Mack, George Ruffing, technicians; Joseph Bropheq, posters; Jacqueline Flowers, tickets; David Fairbanks, art work, programs; Doris Myers, art work, sets; Frances Grafe, press representative, and Bernice Pfieffer, wardrobe.

Tickets for the little theatre production are available in Kingston from any number of the group, Kingston Chapter, American Association of University Women, the Salvation Army, or at the following stores: The Geraldine Shop, O'Reilly's Stationery Store, Marion's Restaurant.

In Woodstock tickets are available at The Candeliers, and David Fairbanks' The Scriptory, while they may be bought in Saugerties at Josephine Plimley's The Flower Garden.

Footlighters Hard At Work on 'Claudia' Set for Thursday

The thermometer may crawl up to the boiling point this week, but for the Footlighters, hard at work on the set of "Claudia," weather is only a minor matter.

Under the co-chairmanship of Ray Smith and Tom Cerwonka, both of Kingston, a collection of "flats" in odd shapes and sizes, in good, middling, and bad repair, have evolved into the living room of the Naughton's Connecticut home. Betti Williams, Adeline DeCicco, and Eernice Pfieffer have been shopping for what seems to the young thespians an endless time for the just right piece of period furniture, furniture Claudia's architect husband would have selected for his home.

Others in the back-stage picture are Valdo Viglielmo, stage manager; Alfred Flowers and Ernest Grafe, business; Ruth Fredericks, programs; John Berinato, James Roe, Frank Mack, George Ruffing, technicians; Joseph Brophey, posters; Jacqueline Flowers, tickets; David Fairbanks, art work, programs; Doris Myers, art work, sets; Frances Grafe, press representative, and Bernice Pfieffer, wardrobe.

Tickets for the little theatre production are available in Kingston from any number of the group, Kingston Chapter, American Association of University Women, the Salvation Army, or at the following stores: The Geraldine Shop, O'Reilly's Stationery Store, Marion's Restaurant.

In Woodstock tickets are available at The Candeliers, and David Fairbanks' The Scriptory, while they may be bought in Saugerties at Josephine Plimley's The Flower Garden.

CUP ON PLATE

A young hostess asks: "Is it proper to stand a cup on a plate which leaves space at the side to put sandwiches and cake? More and more is this being done by hostesses here instead of serving the cup on a saucer and extra little planes for food. It does seem more practical even though a little unorthodox."

I cannot really approve of it, but if the cup and plate belong to a matching set of china so that the pattern is the same, that of course would obviate the most important objection to it. The second objection is that the cup is inclined to slide around on the plate.

Street Corner Scene

Dear Mrs. Post: Should a man who is standing on the street corner waiting for a bus with several strange women, wait for all the women to get on the bus before he does?

Answer: If there is one woman waiting beside him, he would naturally let her get on first. But if there is a group of women he would get on in his turn.

Note to Boss or His Wife?

Dear Mrs. Post: My boss and his wife sent a wedding gift. I don't know her at all: have never even spoken to her on the telephone. Should I nevertheless write her my thank-you note?

Answer: If the present was sent in both their names, then you should write your note to her, thanking her and her husband for their gift. Of course, when you see him at the office you would naturally tell him how much you liked what they sent you.

Aunt Wants to Give Shower

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it improper for an aunt of the bride to give her a shower?

Answer: Not as improper as a member of her immediate family giving such a party. But most properly, showers are given by none but friends.

Do You Remember

SOPHIE MILLER

Talking about baseball, remember back in 1914 when the Red Monograms opened the baseball season at McVey's Field, now Hasbrouck Park. It was on May 3, that they defeated the famous Swamp Angels of Poughkeepsie by a score of 21 to 7. Many times I used to talk to Dick Williams, custodian of the municipal auditorium about those games. He remembers all the players as he was one of them himself.

Since the mention of the broken windows of the Rondout Presbyterian Church in this column items which have been preserved for years have been brought out. One item reads in part: "It was on April 5, 1914 that the Presbyterian Church of Rondout celebrated its 40th anniversary in its present church on Wurts street, although the church was first organized in November of 1833. The first worship in the present edifice was held on April 5, 1874. The Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis, pastor of the church, delivered the anniversary address, taking as his theme, "The Passing Years" and recalling the many changes 40 years had made in the life of Kingston." I wish I had a copy of that speech, I am sure there were many interesting items in it.

Looking through the list of drug stores in Kingston back in the 1900's Cooper & Hardenburgh were on John street; Crispell and Boughton at 572 Broadway; William F. Dederick at 308 Wall street; Joseph DuBois at 49 North Front street; estate of Richard Deyo, at 30 E. Strand; Eltinge and Schoonmaker at 328 Wall street about where Union Fern is today; George W. Johnston, at 26 E. Strand, his nephew, Benjamin Johnston continued it; Washington Laycock pharmacy at 60 Broadway, where Henry Singer's Dry Goods store is today; Charles L. McBride at 634 Broadway, now run by his son, Bill McBride. Charles C. Ten Broeck drug store was at 322 Wall street where Gold's dress shop is today. Van Deusen Brothers were down at 14 East Strand. Pharmacy has changed a great deal since then in appearance of store, the type of items handled but the pharmacist himself remains the same type of sympathetic, understanding professional retail merchant.

Do you folks remember when Rose and Gorman had a balcony leading to the rest rooms and you could sit on easy chairs and look out the big picture window toward the mountains. Many times I told folks around there that it would have been such a wonderful place for a tea room. I think I even told Mr. Gorman once, and as I remember he said or some one else that Herbert Carl did have one up there. Also, as far as I remember, the only outdoor restaurant was right across from the high school some 20 years back. Although I think Morgan's had an outdoor place although partly enclosed and used during the summer. New York city has outdoor eating places right near Times Square and so did Woodstock. Remember the "Knife and Fork." Of course we have our outdoor hamburg stands now. Perhaps someday, someone will open a "Sidewalk Cafe" around here.

Lie Will Return

Oslo, Norway, June 26 (AP)—Trygve Lie, secretary of the United Nations, boarded a plane here today to return to U.N. headquarters in New York. He interrupted his vacation here because of the Soviet bid for a cease-fire in the Korean war. Asked what he thought of the chances of peace in Korea, Lie told reporters: "That's what I'm going to find out." He said he would confer on the matter during a stopover in London en route back to New York, but he would not say with whom he would confer.

Anniversary Service Is Well Attended

Every pew in the red brick Ulster Park Reformed Church was filled last Sunday in honor of the 160th anniversary of that congregation, the third oldest in the county.

During the services, which were conducted by the Rev. John Muilenburg, two children were baptized by the Rev. Harry E. Christiana. The Rev. Mr. Muilenberg was assisted by the Rev. John B. Steketee of this city. The Rev. Joseph Carlin, and the Rev. Robert E. Baines, pastors of the Ulster Park congregation's two daughter churches in St. Remy and Union Center also attended the commemorative service. Soloists were Mrs. Bertrand Burr, and Mrs. Marilyn Kuntz Markle.

Following the 11 a. m. service a picnic lunch was held on the church lawn.

Martin Says Press Commits Suicide

Pittsburgh, June 26 (AP)—Harry Martin, President of the American Newspaper Guild, asserts "the newspaper industry in this country is committing suicide."

In a speech at the opening session of the CIO Union's 18th annual convention yesterday, he termed the recent sale of the St. Louis Star-Times "a cold-blooded murder."

"What have we come to," he went on, "when newspaper owners would rather kill great and influential newspapers rather than tackle the problem of rising costs with courage?"

Martin told the delegates the country needs more, not fewer newspapers.

Philip Murray, president of the CIO, will address the convention tonight.

Expenditure Authorized

New York, June 26 (AP)—Federal Judge Samuel H. Kaufman yesterday authorized expenditure of $12,000 for a survey of the Third Avenue Transit Corporation street car system in Yonkers. He acted after trustees for the company asserted they wished either to abandon the Yonkers system or sell it under a possibility that it could be converted to omnibus operation. The trustees appealed to Judge Kaufman, who is directing the reorganization of the corporation, for instructions on which course to follow.

Says U. S. Far Behind

New York, June 26 (AP)—The United States is far behind Russian civil defense, says Civil Defense Administrator Millard Caldwell. "The Russians are taking civil defense seriously," says Caldwell. He adds that from 20,000,000 to 40,000,000 Russians are trained and organized as civil defense workers. While the U. S. needs 15,000,000 trained civil defense workers, Caldwell says, less than 1,000,000 Americans have volunteered for the duty.

Good Taste Today

CUP ON PLATE

A young hostess asks: "Is it proper to stand a cup on a plate which leaves space at the side to put sandwiches and cake? More and more is this being done by hostesses here instead of serving the cup on a saucer and extra little planes for food. It does seem more practical even though a little unorthodox."

I cannot really approve of it, but if the cup and plate belong to a matching set of china so that the pattern is the same, that of course would obviate the most important objection to it. The second objection is that the cup is inclined to slide around on the plate.

Street Corner Scene

Dear Mrs. Post: Should a man who is standing on the street corner waiting for a bus with several strange women, wait for all the women to get on the bus before he does?

Answer: If there is one woman waiting beside him, he would naturally let her get on first. But if there is a group of women he would get on in his turn.

Ayers Blanks Pittsfield on 5-Hits, 4-0; Marino Raps Homer in First

Victory Is First Of 1951 Campaign Over Loop Leaders

Colonial Moundsman Also Gets 2 Hits

A solid combination of great pitching by young Charlie Ayers and the recent acquisition of Nick Marino, finally gave the Kingston Colonials the right prescription needed to defeat the league-leading Pittsfield Electrics Monday night in Pittsfield.

Ayers, following up his fine four-inning relief stint at the stadium against Rome Saturday night, got the starting assignment from Manager Joel Kern Monday and the choice proved to be a sound one.

The young righthander turned in Kingston's top mound job of the season as he limited the Electrics to five hits to notch a neat 4 to 0 victory.

It was Kingston's first triumph over Pittsfield in 14 games played this year.

Marino Hits Homer

Marino, the former Amsterdam infielder who had a .349 batting average at the time he severed his services with the Rugmakers, made an auspicious start for the Kernmen last night.

Batting third in the first inning, Nick hammered a 360-foot homer over the left field wall which was all that Ayers needed to win the game.

The new infielder, who played short last night while Manager Kern moved over to third, got on base via walks three times and played errorless ball in the field. He handled five chances flawlessly.

Marino uncorked his first homer as a Colonial in the opening stanza after Dennis Healey greeted starter Dan Katulka of Pittsfield with a single. Kern jammed into a double-play before Marino unloaded however.

The Colonials made it 3-0 in the second when Sam Piacentino reached on Dick Zack's low throw to first and went to second on Allen's one-baser to right. Tony Gomez hit to Moore for a forceout at second but Charlie Ruddock's throw to first was dropped to Bob Winters and Piacentino raced home. After "Red" Klinger whiffed, Ayers helped his own cause with stroking a double to left sending in Gomez with Kingston's third run of the game.

Piacentino Doubles

Kingston added its fourth and final run in the fifth with one out. Marino walked and went to second on Lou Kramberg's singleton to center. Piacentino whacked a double to left-center driving in Marino as Kramberg raced to third. Big Bill Glendenning replaced Katulka at this stage and proceeded to put out the fire.

Glendenning issued a walk to Allen to load the sacks but got Gomez to strike out and then Klinger ended the uprising by forcing Allen to second.

Ayers, meanwhile, went on to handcuff the league-leading Electrics without too much trouble.

He allowed only one hit in the first four and two-thirds inning and that was an infield bunt by Lou Palmisiano until an error by Kern and a single put runners on first and second but Ayers was up to it and retired the side.

Kingston remains on the road for single engagements in Oneonta tonight and Wednesday. The locals will return to municipal stadium for single encounters with Gloversville Thursday and Friday night.

Musial Skids but Holds NL Batting Leadership

New York, June 26 (AP)—The National League batting race tightened during the past week as Stan Musial of St. Louis skidded 11 points to .371, still a comfortable six-point margin over Jackie Robinson's .365.

Musial, a sizzling .500 hitter the week before, settled for seven hits in 25 trips while Robinson had seven in 21. A week ago Musial was on top by 14 points. Averages include Sunday's games.

Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia and Bob Elliott of Boston, another pair ranking high in the All-Star balloting, moved up to a third-place tie with a .349.

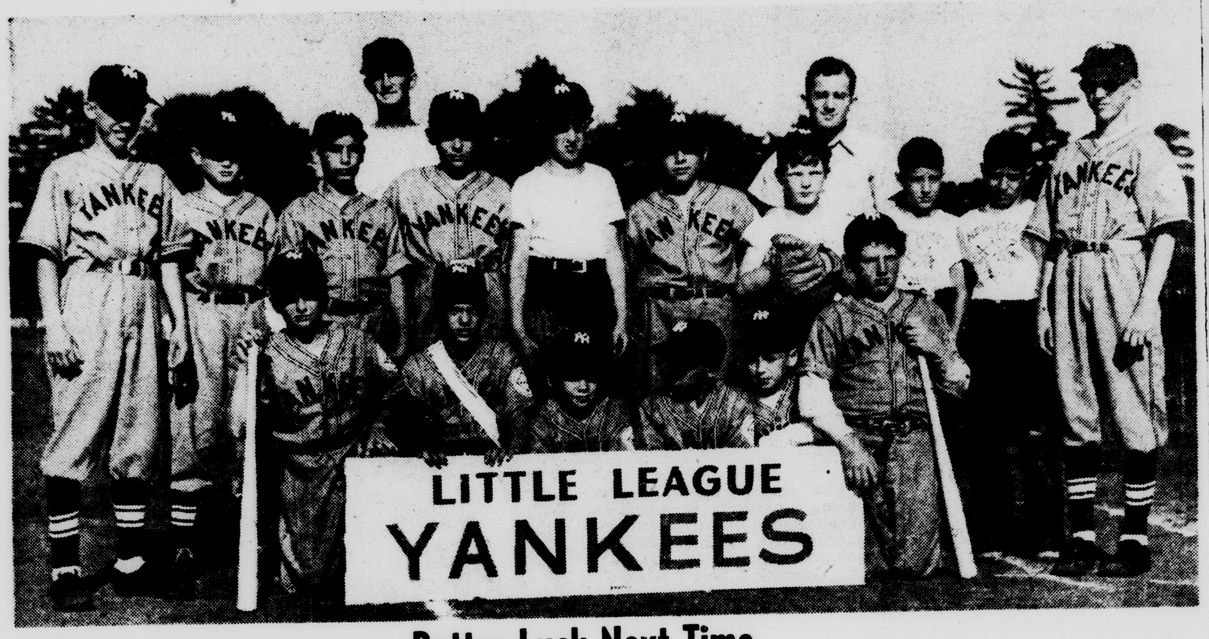

Al Dark of New York edged past Roy Campanella of Brooklyn to take over fifth at .330 with the Dodger catcher right behind at .329.

Roy lost eight points during the final week of the Dodgers' western swing.

Frank Baumholtz of Chicago remained in seventh place at .327 with Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh eighth at .320. Pee Wee Reese of Brooklyn and Peanuts Lowrey of St. Louis, not in the Big 10 last week, just made it with a ninth-place tie at .315.

Tony Turck Fans 12; Nagele Hits Homer for Winners

Red Sox Will Oppose Giants Tonight

A nifty five-hit job by Tony Turck, backed by a strikeout total of 12 batters, sparked the Yankees to a 7 to 1 victory over the Dodgers in the 1951 Little League season opener Monday night at St. Mary's Field.

Appropriate pre-game ceremonies marking the formal opening of the Kingston Athletic Association sponsored league included short speeches by Robert Umpleby, president of the KAA; Alderman-at-Large Joe Kelly, Robert Hardwick, of the Kingston Fire Department and Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor who acted as master of ceremonies.

The Dodgers bumped Turck for their only run of the game in the first inning but after that Turck rolled up a string of goose eggs to win going away.

A big three-run inning gave the Yanks a 3-1 bulge and they added another run in the third to make it 4-1. A single tally in the fifth and two more in the sixth completed the night's scoring.

Ernie Madison and Glen Newell divided the mound chores for the Dodgers, both going six innings. Madison was the loser.

The only homer of the game was hit by Gene Nagele, third sacker of the Yanks, who drove one over the left field fence. The ball, after clearing the wall, bounced off the top of a car.

Nagele was the batting star for the winners, picking up a double in addition to his round-tripper. Leslie Comstock, second baseman of the Dodgers, also collected a pair of hits.

Charlie Bishop, left fielder for the Yankees, got the third extra-base clout for the winners, with his triple.

Tonight's Game

The Red Sox and the Giants meet in the second game of the season tonight at St. Mary's Field.

"Pop" Fuhrman, head of the Kingston Boys' Club, has several of his youngsters ready to try out for the public address system position. . . . Bob Pratt accounted for four of Tony Turck's 12 whiffs. . . . Bob Tierney, the ye old Giant rooter, and Dale Swartzmiller did a fine job of officiating in the opening game. . . . Bob Umpleby and the entire KAA organization deserve a big hand for their hard work in forming this Little League organization. Ayers Blanks Pittsfield on 5-Hits, 4-0; Marino Raps Homer in First

Victory Is First Of 1951 Campaign Over Loop Leaders

Colonial Moundsman Also Gets 2 Hits

A solid combination of great pitching by young Charlie Ayers and the recent acquisition of Nick Marino, finally gave the Kingston Colonials the right prescription needed to defeat the league-leading Pittsfield Electrics Monday night in Pittsfield.

Ayers, following up his fine four-inning relief stint at the stadium against Rome Saturday night, got the starting assignment from Manager Joel Kern Monday and the choice proved to be a sound one.

The young righthander turned in Kingston's top mound job of the season as he limited the Electrics to five hits to notch a neat 4 to 0 victory.

It was Kingston's first triumph over Pittsfield in 14 games played this year.

Marino Hits Homer

Marino, the former Amsterdam infielder who had a .349 batting average at the time he severed his services with the Rugmakers, made an auspicious start for the Kernmen last night.

Batting third in the first inning, Nick hammered a 360-foot homer over the left field wall which was all that Ayers needed to win the game.

The new infielder, who played short last night while Manager Kern moved over to third, got on base via walks three times and played errorless ball in the field. He handled five chances flawlessly.

Marino uncorked his first homer as a Colonial in the opening stanza after Dennis Healey greeted starter Dan Katulka of Pittsfield with a single. Kern jammed into a double-play before Marino unloaded however.

The Colonials made it 3-0 in the second when Sam Piacentino reached on Dick Zack's low throw to first and went to second on Allen's one-baser to right. Tony Gomez hit to Moore for a forceout at second but Charlie Ruddock's throw to first was dropped to Bob Winters and Piacentino raced home. After "Red" Klinger whiffed, Ayers helped his own cause with stroking a double to left sending in Gomez with Kingston's third run of the game.

Piacentino Doubles

Kingston added its fourth and final run in the fifth with one out. Marino walked and went to second on Lou Kramberg's singleton to center. Piacentino whacked a double to left-center driving in Marino as Kramberg raced to third. Big Bill Glendenning replaced Katulka at this stage and proceeded to put out the fire.

Glendenning issued a walk to Allen to load the sacks but got Gomez to strike out and then Klinger ended the uprising by forcing Allen to second.

Ayers, meanwhile, went on to handcuff the league-leading Electrics without too much trouble.

He allowed only one hit in the first four and two-thirds inning and that was an infield bunt by Lou Palmisiano until an error by Kern and a single put runners on first and second but Ayers was up to it and retired the side.

Kingston remains on the road for single engagements in Oneonta tonight and Wednesday. The locals will return to municipal stadium for single encounters with Gloversville Thursday and Friday night.

FLY FISHING TIPS...

Yanks Steal Bums' Style, Still Win

New York, June 26 (AP)—Everything happens at Ebbets' Field, eh?

A jam-packed crowd of 71,289—largest ever to attend an exhibition game—can challenge you on that.

It witnessed something last night that rivals any zany stunt ever pulled in the Brooklyn Dodgers Park. It happened in Yankee Stadium, of all places.

The culprits? None other than the proud and conservative world champion New York Yankees.

This is the play-by-play account:

The Yankees and Dodgers were deadlocked at 3-3 with New York at bat in the 10th inning. The bases were loaded with nobody out. Pinchhitter Gene Woodling smashed a long drive into the right field seats.

A grand slam homer? Nope. Just a little single.

How's that you say?

As Woodling was rounding first, he passed Hank Bauer who had stopped between first and second to congratulate his teammate. This action limited the blow to a single. Phil Rizzuto, however, scored from third with the run needed to win. The score was New York 4, Brooklyn 3.

And they call the Dodgers daffy!

Dairymen Rout Bowlodrome Nine, 19-2, With 21-Hit Attack on Three Pitchers

Carlino Raps Homer, Three Singles

Scoring more than one run in each of the six innings, Jones Dairy exploded for a wild 19 to 2 victory over Ferraro's Bowlodrome in the City League Monday night at the Athletic Field.

While his mates hammered Angelo Fondino, Joe Watzka and Mauro for 21 safe blows, Tommy Fisher breezed along on a three-hitter to chalk up the easy triumph.

The Dairymen took a 7-0 lead in the first two frames, added two more in the third, six in the fourth and two more in each the fifth and sixth to win handily. Fisher lost his shutout in the fourth when the Bowlodrome nine put together a double by Mauro, a single by Joe Watzka, a walk and a hit batsman for two runs.

During the six-inning batting marathon, Tommy Carlino, shortstop for the winners, led the way with a homer and three singles. Don Jones and Clark Donlon each picked up a double and three singles while Schatzel stroked a pair of doubles and a single.

The only Dairymen failing to enjoy the batting spree were Tommy Maines and Fisher.

Messinger's Memos....Charlie Neff, in the second inning, gloved Joe Watzka's fly for the only outfield putout of the game, setting a new seasonal record and possibly an all-time mark...Two putouts were registered by fielders during the Chez Emile-Merchant game May 21 and two by Boulevard Gulf-Ferraro's gardeners on June 12.

Tonight's Game

Morgan's Merchants, still looking for their first win, engage the Dairymen in tonight's action at the Athletic Field. Hokie Tomson and Donlon are the scheduled hurlers in the final game of the first half.

Old Capital Motors and Chez Emile will play Wednesday while the Bowlodrome nine engages Boulevard Gulf on Thursday night.

FLY FISHING TIPS...

THE BEST DRY FLIES SHOULD FLOAT HIGH ON TOP OF THE WATER. THE "LEE WULFF" WITH ITS HEAVY HACKLE (AN IDEAL FLOATER) IS SHOWN AS A GOOD EXAMPLE.

WHEN A DRY FLY FLOATS LOW IN THE WATER, DIP IT IN DRY FLY OIL TO RESTORE ITS FLOATING QUALITIES.

THE COILING TENDENCY OF NYLON LEADER MATERIAL MAY BE REMOVED SO IT WILL LAY OUT STRAIGHT AFTER CASTING BY RUBBING IT BRISKLY WITH A SMALL PIECE OF RUBBER INNER TUBE.

Yanks Steal Bums' Style, Still Win

New York, June 26 (AP)—Everything happens at Ebbets' Field, eh?

A jam-packed crowd of 71,289—largest ever to attend an exhibition game—can challenge you on that.

It witnessed something last night that rivals any zany stunt ever pulled in the Brooklyn Dodgers Park. It happened in Yankee Stadium, of all places.

The culprits? None other than the proud and conservative world champion New York Yankees.

This is the play-by-play account:

The Yankees and Dodgers were deadlocked at 3-3 with New York at bat in the 10th inning. The bases were loaded with nobody out. Pinchhitter Gene Woodling smashed a long drive into the right field seats.

A grand slam homer? Nope. Just a little single.

How's that you say?

As Woodling was rounding first, he passed Hank Bauer who had stopped between first and second to congratulate his teammate. This action limited the blow to a single. Phil Rizzuto, however, scored from third with the run needed to win. The score was New York 4, Brooklyn 3.

And they call the Dodgers daffy!

Others (l. to r.) are Charles Tiano, sports editor of The Freeman, master of ceremonies; Joe Kelly, alderman at large with Johnny Noonan, aged 5, who threw first ball and Robert Hardwick, president of the Uniformed Firemen's Association, which, with the Kingston Lions Club helped the KAA sponsor the Little League for youngsters of the city. Dairymen Rout Bowlodrome Nine, 19-2, With 21-Hit Attack on Three Pitchers

Carlino Raps Homer, Three Singles

Scoring more than one run in each of the six innings, Jones Dairy exploded for a wild 19 to 2 victory over Ferraro's Bowlodrome in the City League Monday night at the Athletic Field.

While his mates hammered Angelo Fondino, Joe Watzka and Mauro for 21 safe blows, Tommy Fisher breezed along on a three-hitter to chalk up the easy triumph.

The Dairymen took a 7-0 lead in the first two frames, added two more in the third, six in the fourth and two more in each the fifth and sixth to win handily. Fisher lost his shutout in the fourth when the Bowlodrome nine put together a double by Mauro, a single by Joe Watzka, a walk and a hit batsman for two runs.

During the six-inning batting marathon, Tommy Carlino, shortstop for the winners, led the way with a homer and three singles. Don Jones and Clark Donlon each picked up a double and three singles while Schatzel stroked a pair of doubles and a single.

The only Dairymen failing to enjoy the batting spree were Tommy Maines and Fisher.

Messinger's Memos....Charlie Neff, in the second inning, gloved Joe Watzka's fly for the only outfield putout of the game, setting a new seasonal record and possibly an all-time mark...Two putouts were registered by fielders during the Chez Emile-Merchant game May 21 and two by Boulevard Gulf-Ferraro's gardeners on June 12.

Tonight's Game

Morgan's Merchants, still looking for their first win, engage the Dairymen in tonight's action at the Athletic Field. Hokie Tomson and Donlon are the scheduled hurlers in the final game of the first half.

Old Capital Motors and Chez Emile will play Wednesday while the Bowlodrome nine engages Boulevard Gulf on Thursday night.

THE SCOREBOARD

(By The Associated Press)

Back in 1934 Bill Terry, then manager of New York's world champion Giants, was asked what he thought of the dreary Brooklyn Dodgers.

"Are they still in the league?" he retorted.

Now 17 years later, another Giants manager, Leo Durocher, will attempt to prove that the Dodgers are still in the league.

Pacing the pack by six full games, the Dodgers appear to be in a league all by themselves. They are threatening to make a shambles of the pennant race in the National circuit. The responsibility of halting the Brooklyn runaway rests squarely on the Giants.

Giants Need Pair

The bitter interborough rivals open a vital three-game series tonight at the Polo Grounds. The general feeling is that the Giants must win at least two out of three to convince themselves, along with the rest of the circuit, that the chase is not hopeless. The rivals clash in another three-game set in Brooklyn next week.

Although the Giants won nine and lost four in the west, they failed to gain an inch on the Dodgers. They did, however, climb from fourth to second to clearly mark themselves as Brooklyn's strongest challenger.

There is a side issue to the Dodger-Giant battles. That is the threat of beanball hostilities. The two teams have not met since April 30 when some of the Brooklyn hitters accused pitcher Sal Maglie of throwing at them. A brush between Maglie and Jackie Robinson almost erupted into serious trouble.

Nobody knows what to expect.

"I don't know yet what I'm going to do," league president Ford Frick said. "I might issue instructions to managers Durocher and Dressen. I haven't decided yet."

Dressen has Preacher Roe (10-0), his unbeaten southpaw, ready for tonight. He'll be opposed by Maglie (11-3).

The Dodgers may be without the services of Gil Hodges, the slugging first baseman who leads the majors with 24 home runs. Hodges injured his left instep in Sunday's doubleheader in Pittsburgh and did not see action last night in Brooklyn's exhibition game against the New York Yankees.

In contrast to the National, the American League appears set for a blistering pennant race with Chicago's White Sox, New York's Yankees, Cleveland's Indians and Boston's Red Sox all figuring prominently.

Sox Seek Lost Ground

Their once-comfortable 4½ cushion deflated to one game, the White Sox hope to regain some lost ground in the next two weeks.

They open against Detroit tonight at home, where they remain for nine games before moving to Cleveland and St. Louis for seven more. They split 16 games on their just-completed eastern swing.

Manager Paul Richards has nominated Randy Gumpert (7-1) to oppose the Tigers. Bob Cain (6-4) will oppose his former teammates.

New York's runnerup Yankees visit Washington for the first of three games. Ed Lopat (10-2) is slated to oppose Washington's Con Marrero (6-4).

The Red Sox open a two-game stand against the hot Philadelphia Athletics. Mel Parnell (8-4) will oppose Bob Hooper (2-5).

Cleveland, glad to get away from the Yankee Stadium, where they dropped three straight to extend their non-winning skein to 11 in a row in New York, are back to meet the last-place St. Louis Browns.

In other games, the St. Louis Cardinals play host to Chicago's Cubs, the Phils take on the Boston Braves in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh engages the Reds in Cincinnati.

Wiltwyck Golfers Trip Twaalfskill In Inter-Club Match, 34-23

Hurley Linksmen Hold Point Edge

The Wiltwyck Club golfers avenged last week's setback at the hands of the Twaalfskill swingers by handing them an 11 point defeat Sunday. Point totals were: Wiltwyck 34, Twaalfskill 23. The combined two-week totals puts the Hurley avenue linksmen on top by a narrow four-point margin, 61-57.

In the newly inaugurated split plan of play, Sunday's match found the low-handicap players at Twaalfskill, and the high-handicap men touring the uptown fairways. In three of four instances over the two days of play, the home players have beaten their invading opponents. The exception, and turning point, came Sunday when Wiltwycks low-handicap players upset their Twaalfskill hosts, 13-11. At the same time, the lower half of Wiltwycks team trounced their guests 21-12 to insure Wiltwycks victory.

The "Four Aces," Alvin Boice and George Hughes of Twaalfskill, and Bill Van Aken and Leon Randall of Wiltwyck, again finished their match in a 1½-1½ standoff. Boice fired low gross of 70, to beat Van Aken 2 and 1. Hughes, two down on the 17th tee, birdied the 17th to keep alive, and squared the match when Randall three-putted the 18th green. Wiltwyck won the best-ball match.

In the number 2 foursome, Watts Bailey continued his top-notch play with a 73 to down Ed Remmert. John Van Gonsic, standing even on the 11th tee in his match with Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr., scorched the course with four birdies on the next seven holes, winning the match 4 and 2. His incoming 33 was the best 9-hole total of the day. Bailey and Holcomb took the best-ball match 2-up and won the foursome 2-1.

Close matches were the order of the day, as only five of the 19 foursome resulted in 3-0 sweeps. At Twaalfskill, Maurice Davenport and Dr. George Rifenbary whitewashed Dr. Douw Meyers and Gus Modjeska, as did Clarence Raichle and Herb Roth, over Lou Smith and Dick Overbaugh. Dan Shufeldt and Jim Dwyer gave Twaalfskill a sweep over Art Organtini and Ike Trowbridge. At the Wiltwyck course, two host teams turned in perfect jobs, Harry Green and Harry Wieber beating Dr. Robert Moseley and Bob Herzog, while Hank York and Bob Powell did a similar 3-0 job on Abe Streifer and Dr. Fred Carr. All other matches saw a split in the points.

The play at Twaalfskill was highlighted by two eagle-2's on the short fourth hole. Dr. Rifenbary rammed in a 30-foot putt for one, and Bill Van Aken came within about 18 inches of an ace with his second round drive. The low gross cards for the day included: A. Boice (T) 70, W. Van Aken (W) 71, J. Van Gonsic (T) and J. W. Bailey (W) 73, L. Randall (W) and G. Hughes (T) 74, R. Daley (W) 75, M. Davenport (W) 76, Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr. (W) 77, Dr. George Rifenbary (W) and C. Raichle (W) 78.

Results in foursomes not already mentioned were:

A. Heisman and Ruben Leventhal, (W) tied Dr. Harry LeFever, Jr. and Dr. Joseph Jacobson, 1½-1½.

Bob Cullum and Bob Daley (W) tied Dr. Rod Ball and Ed Modjeska 1½-1½.

Burt Haver and Floyd Flint (T) d. A. A. Davis and Ed Tongue, 2½-½.

A. D. Kaplan and Bob Boice (T) d. E. LeFever and Lou Bruhn 2-1.

Reynolds Carr and Jim Turck (T) d. A. A. Davis Jr. and W. R. McClements 2-1.

R. Gardner and Art Hutton (W) d. Howard St. John and Bob O'Reilly 2-1.

Bill Messing and T. J. Rifenbary (W) tied George Schneider and Ed O'Reilly 1½-1½.

Lou Alcon and Meyer Levy (W) d. Gene Freer and J. O'Connor 2-1.

Lou Kantrowitz and Bill Zwick (W) d. Alan Tobias and John Schoonmaker 2-1.

Frank Campochiaro and Charles Vogel (T) d. Charles Meirowitz and John Dudyk 2½-½.

Stan Hankinson and Ben Cohen (W) d. Bob Russell and Walt Fitzgerald 2½-½.

Jim Winters and A. J. Anderson (W) d. H. Barrows and John Matthews 2½-½.

Lanesville Trips Merchants 5 to 4

Angelo Fondino tried a yeoman's role for the Colonial Merchants in their game with the Lanesville AC Sunday afternoon but it all went down the drain as the home towners squeaked through with a 5 to 4 victory.

Fondino, going the distance on the hill for the losers, pitched himself a neat three-hitter, struck out 10 and even slapped out a grand slam homer. Ordinarily, those efforts would be enough to win a couple of games but not this particular time.

Lanesville jumped on Fondino for a single tally in the first frame but saw the lead vanish in the fourth when Fondino whacked his four-run homer.

The Merchants protected their 4-1 edge until the bottom of the fifth when Lanesville pushed over four runs and the ball game.

The Kingston club out-hit their rivals, 7 to 3, but in a losing cause.

Smith Whiffs 13

B. Smith went the distance for Lanesville and struck out 13.

Karl Bush made his first appearance of the season behind the plate for Lanesville and had quite a day for himself. Sidelined due to an illness, Bush definitely made his presence known by belting a pair of doubles in his four trips to the plate.

His first double gave Lanesville its 1-0 lead in the first and his second two-base poke drove in the tying and winning markers in the fifth inning.

Two of Lanesville's regulars, Doug Clark, left fielder and Jackie Farrell, second baseman, did not see action. The two, along with Bob Curtis, left Kingston Saturday for two weeks of training with the National Guard at Pine Camp.

Lanesville will meet Shandaken Sunday and on July 4 the Dwyer's All Stars of Albany will offer the opposition.

THE SCOREBOARD

(By The Associated Press)

Back in 1934 Bill Terry, then manager of New York's world champion Giants, was asked what he thought of the dreary Brooklyn Dodgers.

"Are they still in the league?" he retorted.

Now 17 years later, another Giants manager, Leo Durocher, will attempt to prove that the Dodgers are still in the league.

Pacing the pack by six full games, the Dodgers appear to be in a league all by themselves. They are threatening to make a shambles of the pennant race in the National circuit. The responsibility of halting the Brooklyn runaway rests squarely on the Giants.

Giants Need Pair

The bitter interborough rivals open a vital three-game series tonight at the Polo Grounds. The general feeling is that the Giants must win at least two out of three to convince themselves, along with the rest of the circuit, that the chase is not hopeless. The rivals clash in another three-game set in Brooklyn next week.

Although the Giants won nine and lost four in the west, they failed to gain an inch on the Dodgers. They did, however, climb from fourth to second to clearly mark themselves as Brooklyn's strongest challenger.

There is a side issue to the Dodger-Giant battles. That is the threat of beanball hostilities. The two teams have not met since April 30 when some of the Brooklyn hitters accused pitcher Sal Maglie of throwing at them. A brush between Maglie and Jackie Robinson almost erupted into serious trouble.

Nobody knows what to expect.

"I don't know yet what I'm going to do," league president Ford Frick said. "I might issue instructions to managers Durocher and Dressen. I haven't decided yet."

Dressen has Preacher Roe (10-0), his unbeaten southpaw, ready for tonight. He'll be opposed by Maglie (11-3).

The Dodgers may be without the services of Gil Hodges, the slugging first baseman who leads the majors with 24 home runs. Hodges injured his left instep in Sunday's doubleheader in Pittsburgh and did not see action last night in Brooklyn's exhibition game against the New York Yankees.

In contrast to the National, the American League appears set for a blistering pennant race with Chicago's White Sox, New York's Yankees, Cleveland's Indians and Boston's Red Sox all figuring prominently.

Sox Seek Lost Ground

Their once-comfortable 4½ cushion deflated to one game, the White Sox hope to regain some lost ground in the next two weeks.

They open against Detroit tonight at home, where they remain for nine games before moving to Cleveland and St. Louis for seven more. They split 16 games on their just-completed eastern swing.

Manager Paul Richards has nominated Randy Gumpert (7-1) to oppose the Tigers. Bob Cain (6-4) will oppose his former teammates.

New York's runnerup Yankees visit Washington for the first of three games. Ed Lopat (10-2) is slated to oppose Washington's Con Marrero (6-4).

The Red Sox open a two-game stand against the hot Philadelphia Athletics. Mel Parnell (8-4) will oppose Bob Hooper (2-5).

Cleveland, glad to get away from the Yankee Stadium, where they dropped three straight to extend their non-winning skein to 11 in a row in New York, are back to meet the last-place St. Louis Browns.

In other games, the St. Louis Cardinals play host to Chicago's Cubs, the Phils take on the Boston Braves in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh engages the Reds in Cincinnati.

Wiltwyck Golfers Trip Twaalfskill In Inter-Club Match, 34-23

Hurley Linksmen Hold Point Edge

The Wiltwyck Club golfers avenged last week's setback at the hands of the Twaalfskill swingers by handing them an 11 point defeat Sunday. Point totals were: Wiltwyck 34, Twaalfskill 23. The combined two-week totals puts the Hurley avenue linksmen on top by a narrow four-point margin, 61-57.

In the newly inaugurated split plan of play, Sunday's match found the low-handicap players at Twaalfskill, and the high-handicap men touring the uptown fairways. In three of four instances over the two days of play, the home players have beaten their invading opponents. The exception, and turning point, came Sunday when Wiltwycks low-handicap players upset their Twaalfskill hosts, 13-11. At the same time, the lower half of Wiltwycks team trounced their guests 21-12 to insure Wiltwycks victory.

The "Four Aces," Alvin Boice and George Hughes of Twaalfskill, and Bill Van Aken and Leon Randall of Wiltwyck, again finished their match in a 1½-1½ standoff. Boice fired low gross of 70, to beat Van Aken 2 and 1. Hughes, two down on the 17th tee, birdied the 17th to keep alive, and squared the match when Randall three-putted the 18th green. Wiltwyck won the best-ball match.

In the number 2 foursome, Watts Bailey continued his top-notch play with a 73 to down Ed Remmert. John Van Gonsic, standing even on the 11th tee in his match with Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr., scorched the course with four birdies on the next seven holes, winning the match 4 and 2. His incoming 33 was the best 9-hole total of the day. Bailey and Holcomb took the best-ball match 2-up and won the foursome 2-1.

Close matches were the order of the day, as only five of the 19 foursome resulted in 3-0 sweeps. At Twaalfskill, Maurice Davenport and Dr. George Rifenbary whitewashed Dr. Douw Meyers and Gus Modjeska, as did Clarence Raichle and Herb Roth, over Lou Smith and Dick Overbaugh. Dan Shufeldt and Jim Dwyer gave Twaalfskill a sweep over Art Organtini and Ike Trowbridge. At the Wiltwyck course, two host teams turned in perfect jobs, Harry Green and Harry Wieber beating Dr. Robert Moseley and Bob Herzog, while Hank York and Bob Powell did a similar 3-0 job on Abe Streifer and Dr. Fred Carr. All other matches saw a split in the points.

The play at Twaalfskill was highlighted by two eagle-2's on the short fourth hole. Dr. Rifenbary rammed in a 30-foot putt for one, and Bill Van Aken came within about 18 inches of an ace with his second round drive. The low gross cards for the day included: A. Boice (T) 70, W. Van Aken (W) 71, J. Van Gonsic (T) and J. W. Bailey (W) 73, L. Randall (W) and G. Hughes (T) 74, R. Daley (W) 75, M. Davenport (W) 76, Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr. (W) 77, Dr. George Rifenbary (W) and C. Raichle (W) 78.

Results in foursomes not already mentioned were:

A. Heisman and Ruben Leventhal, (W) tied Dr. Harry LeFever, Jr. and Dr. Joseph Jacobson, 1½-1½.

Bob Cullum and Bob Daley (W) tied Dr. Rod Ball and Ed Modjeska 1½-1½.

Burt Haver and Floyd Flint (T) d. A. A. Davis and Ed Tongue, 2½-½.

A. D. Kaplan and Bob Boice (T) d. E. LeFever and Lou Bruhn 2-1.

Reynolds Carr and Jim Turck (T) d. A. A. Davis Jr. and W. R. McClements 2-1.

R. Gardner and Art Hutton (W) d. Howard St. John and Bob O'Reilly 2-1.

Bill Messing and T. J. Rifenbary (W) tied George Schneider and Ed O'Reilly 1½-1½.

Lou Alcon and Meyer Levy (W) d. Gene Freer and J. O'Connor 2-1.

Lou Kantrowitz and Bill Zwick (W) d. Alan Tobias and John Schoonmaker 2-1.

Frank Campochiaro and Charles Vogel (T) d. Charles Meirowitz and John Dudyk 2½-½.

Stan Hankinson and Ben Cohen (W) d. Bob Russell and Walt Fitzgerald 2½-½.

Jim Winters and A. J. Anderson (W) d. H. Barrows and John Matthews 2½-½.

Lanesville Trips Merchants 5 to 4

Angelo Fondino tried a yeoman's role for the Colonial Merchants in their game with the Lanesville AC Sunday afternoon but it all went down the drain as the home towners squeaked through with a 5 to 4 victory.

Fondino, going the distance on the hill for the losers, pitched himself a neat three-hitter, struck out 10 and even slapped out a grand slam homer. Ordinarily, those efforts would be enough to win a couple of games but not this particular time.

Lanesville jumped on Fondino for a single tally in the first frame but saw the lead vanish in the fourth when Fondino whacked his four-run homer.

The Merchants protected their 4-1 edge until the bottom of the fifth when Lanesville pushed over four runs and the ball game.

The Kingston club out-hit their rivals, 7 to 3, but in a losing cause.

Smith Whiffs 13

B. Smith went the distance for Lanesville and struck out 13.

Karl Bush made his first appearance of the season behind the plate for Lanesville and had quite a day for himself. Sidelined due to an illness, Bush definitely made his presence known by belting a pair of doubles in his four trips to the plate.

His first double gave Lanesville its 1-0 lead in the first and his second two-base poke drove in the tying and winning markers in the fifth inning.

Two of Lanesville's regulars, Doug Clark, left fielder and Jackie Farrell, second baseman, did not see action. The two, along with Bob Curtis, left Kingston Saturday for two weeks of training with the National Guard at Pine Camp.

Lanesville will meet Shandaken Sunday and on July 4 the Dwyer's All Stars of Albany will offer the opposition.

the 38th Parallel to 20 miles north of it. But there was no noteworthy change in battle lines.

Hill Position Captured

Attacking Chinese captured a key hill position in an early morning fight near Kumhwa, but were driven off by noon in a UN counterattack.

Reds launched a series of probing attacks and raked allied lines with artillery at scattered points. Some allied patrols were turned back by bitter resistance and others roamed for miles without finding Reds.

UN patrols bumped into Communist barbed wire entanglements on the east-central front. "The Reds definitely are building a heavy defense, probably parallel to our lines," an officer said.

The Communist air force showed new aggressive tendencies in its strikes at bombing Superforts. Allied air forces reported no B-29s were damaged in one attack. But it did not say what happened to them in the second strike.

It was in this last battle that a Red nosed MIG-15 was shot down. Twelve Red jets attacked the B-29s and in turn were hit by 24 U. S. Sabre jets. After a brief dog fight, surviving Reds streaked for the Manchurian border.

Forty MIGS and 29 Sabre jets were involved in an afternoon air battle. The evening summary of the air war gave no details.

Bayonet fighting raged in the rolling hills. Fire bombing planes swooped in close to the lines and blasted Chinese attackers.

For the 131st consecutive day UN warships bombarded Wonsan, east coast port and transport center.

quoted the gunman as saying. "I'll count to three."

The gunman never actually entered the apartment, Hotchkiss said, but simply raised the screen and call his order.

Mrs. Hotchkiss stepped over to and out the window. A neighbor told police he overheard the man say. "Be quiet. I'm a killer."

Mrs. Hotchkiss said the men drove her to Great Falls, a well-known scenic spot 10 miles up the Potomac river, where she said the alleged attacks took place.

They then drove her back near her home, she said.

The Hotchkiss were married June 16 in Winnetka, Ill., a fashionable suburb of Chicago, Hotchkiss said.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Clifford Templeton, of Winnetka, and Samuel J. McCloy, of San Antonio, Tex.

McCoy, reached by newsmen, said he was "awfully glad she's back and I do hope she's all right."

He said he and the girl's mother are divorced and he hadn't heard from them for some time.

Records show that Mrs. Hotchkiss was graduated from school in Winnetka and made her debut there.

They show she was a sophomore at Smith College last spring.

Ensign Hotchkiss apparently is a graduate of Vermont University and Dartmouth College.

All Day, No Riot

New York, June 26 (AP)—Elaine Stritch, understudy to Ethel Merman in the hit-play "Call Me Madam," paid a $1 fine in court today for wearing only a halter and shorts in Central Park Sunday. In imposing the fine for violating park regulations, Magistrate Emilio Nunes told the pretty actress, "a beautiful girl like you could cause a small riot and cause a large crowd to collect by removing your shirt." "Well, I was there all day and nothing happened," she replied. The actress said she peeled off a T-shirt so she could sun herself.

Miss Truman in Rome

Rome, June 26 (AP) — Margaret Truman stepped out into the Roman sunshine after a 24-hour train journey from Paris and began a nine-day visit in Italy. The President's daughter was met by American Ambassador and Mrs. James Clement Dunn, at whose residence she will stay. Miss Truman will have no set itinerary while in Rome. A U. S. embassy spokesman said she declined offers for trips to other Italian cities. Miss Truman is scheduled to sail for New York from Naples July 5.

Challenges O'Conor

Miami, Fla., June 26 (AP)—Gov. Fuller Warren, still at some undisclosed retreat, today countered a Senate crime probe subpoena with a challenge to Sen. O'Conor (D-Md.) to a "full, frank no-holds-barred discussion of gambling in Florida and elsewhere. He charged O'Conor, during two terms as governor of Maryland, "was directly responsible for the gambling corruption and other vice which saturated the biggest city in Maryland." The state's biggest city is Baltimore.

sued six recommendations, asking the railroad to consider various ways for preventing a recurrence of the wreck.

Then it ended its report with an order, that the Pennsylvania Railroad should submit in writing its "conclusions and position in respect to the above recommendations by September 17th, 1951."

The wreck occurred where a temporary track had been built out around the main line at Woodbridge over a temporary trestle, in order to allow construction on the New Jersey Turnpike.

The turnout had comparatively sharp curves and the train plunged off and down an embankment.

Both Pravda and the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia told the Soviet public President Truman supported the Malik proposal for ending the Korean fighting. Under the heading, "The Address of President Truman," the leading Soviet papers said:

the 38th Parallel to 20 miles north of it. But there was no noteworthy change in battle lines.

Hill Position Captured

Attacking Chinese captured a key hill position in an early morning fight near Kumhwa, but were driven off by noon in a UN counterattack.

Reds launched a series of probing attacks and raked allied lines with artillery at scattered points. Some allied patrols were turned back by bitter resistance and others roamed for miles without finding Reds.

UN patrols bumped into Communist barbed wire entanglements on the east-central front. "The Reds definitely are building a heavy defense, probably parallel to our lines," an officer said.

The Communist air force showed new aggressive tendencies in its strikes at bombing Superforts. Allied air forces reported no B-29s were damaged in one attack. But it did not say what happened to them in the second strike.

It was in this last battle that a Red nosed MIG-15 was shot down. Twelve Red jets attacked the B-29s and in turn were hit by 24 U. S. Sabre jets. After a brief dog fight, surviving Reds streaked for the Manchurian border.

Forty MIGS and 29 Sabre jets were involved in an afternoon air battle. The evening summary of the air war gave no details.

Bayonet fighting raged in the rolling hills. Fire bombing planes swooped in close to the lines and blasted Chinese attackers.

For the 131st consecutive day UN warships bombarded Wonsan, east coast port and transport center.

quoted the gunman as saying. "I'll count to three."

The gunman never actually entered the apartment, Hotchkiss said, but simply raised the screen and call his order.

Mrs. Hotchkiss stepped over to and out the window. A neighbor told police he overheard the man say. "Be quiet. I'm a killer."

Mrs. Hotchkiss said the men drove her to Great Falls, a well-known scenic spot 10 miles up the Potomac river, where she said the alleged attacks took place.

They then drove her back near her home, she said.

The Hotchkiss were married June 16 in Winnetka, Ill., a fashionable suburb of Chicago, Hotchkiss said.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Clifford Templeton, of Winnetka, and Samuel J. McCloy, of San Antonio, Tex.

McCoy, reached by newsmen, said he was "awfully glad she's back and I do hope she's all right."

He said he and the girl's mother are divorced and he hadn't heard from them for some time.

Records show that Mrs. Hotchkiss was graduated from school in Winnetka and made her debut there.

They show she was a sophomore at Smith College last spring.

Ensign Hotchkiss apparently is a graduate of Vermont University and Dartmouth College.

All Day, No Riot

New York, June 26 (AP)—Elaine Stritch, understudy to Ethel Merman in the hit-play "Call Me Madam," paid a $1 fine in court today for wearing only a halter and shorts in Central Park Sunday. In imposing the fine for violating park regulations, Magistrate Emilio Nunes told the pretty actress, "a beautiful girl like you could cause a small riot and cause a large crowd to collect by removing your shirt." "Well, I was there all day and nothing happened," she replied. The actress said she peeled off a T-shirt so she could sun herself.

Miss Truman in Rome

Rome, June 26 (AP) — Margaret Truman stepped out into the Roman sunshine after a 24-hour train journey from Paris and began a nine-day visit in Italy. The President's daughter was met by American Ambassador and Mrs. James Clement Dunn, at whose residence she will stay. Miss Truman will have no set itinerary while in Rome. A U. S. embassy spokesman said she declined offers for trips to other Italian cities. Miss Truman is scheduled to sail for New York from Naples July 5.

Challenges O'Conor

Miami, Fla., June 26 (AP)—Gov. Fuller Warren, still at some undisclosed retreat, today countered a Senate crime probe subpoena with a challenge to Sen. O'Conor (D-Md.) to a "full, frank no-holds-barred discussion of gambling in Florida and elsewhere. He charged O'Conor, during two terms as governor of Maryland, "was directly responsible for the gambling corruption and other vice which saturated the biggest city in Maryland." The state's biggest city is Baltimore.

Truman Support Cited

Both Pravda and the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia told the Soviet public President Truman supported the Malik proposal for ending the Korean fighting. Under the heading, "The Address of President Truman," the leading Soviet papers said:

"Today President Truman spoke in Tullahoma, Tenn., in a speech devoted to the policy of the United States government.

sued six recommendations, asking the railroad to consider various ways for preventing a recurrence of the wreck.

Then it ended its report with an order, that the Pennsylvania Railroad should submit in writing its "conclusions and position in respect to the above recommendations by September 17th, 1951."

The wreck occurred where a temporary track had been built out around the main line at Woodbridge over a temporary trestle, in order to allow construction on the New Jersey Turnpike.

The turnout had comparatively sharp curves and the train plunged off and down an embankment.
